Fire destroys Chino garage; owner burned

CHINO — Fire destroyed the Central Automotive garage at 13165 Central Ave. here and six vehicles inside Thursday night, causing an estimated $50,000 to $100,000 damage.

The blaze, which started about 8:45 p.m., also destroyed five automobiles and a pickup truck which were in the building at the time.

The owner of the garage, James Sousa of 12355 Holly Ave., suffered second degree burns on both arms. He was treated at the scene by firemen, but was not hospitalized.

Authorities said the fire was started when a metal plate on the car hoist turned and created a spark which ignited the vapors from spilled gasoline.

Sousa was attempting to repair a water pump on a customer's car when the incident occurred.

He attempted to extinguish the fire, but it quickly engulfed the car and began to spread. Sousa then notified Chino police, who alerted the fire department.

By the time the second of four Chino engines had arrived at the scene, the blaze had totally involved the building. Two units from Montclair also assisted in fighting the fire.

Sousa and a passerby who saw the fire were able to rescue five other automobiles from the garage before they caught fire.

Firemen also had to protect an apartment complex and an adjacent office building from being engulfed by the blaze.

Several antiques which were kept in a storage room in the garage also were destroyed.

Blast kills 53 in firecracker plant

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — An explosion ripped through an illegal firecracker plant near Jakarta this week, killing 53 persons, most of them women, authorities said today.

Police said 50 of the victims were women employes. All bodies were charred beyond recognition, police said.

Suffocation fears rise; oxygen low

CORK, Ireland (UPI) — Two Britons trapped in a midget submarine at the bottom of the Atlantic lapsed into a delirious state today and may suffocate, a rescue vessel reported.

The two men had appeared on the verge of rescue. A rescue submarine groped its way through the murky depths of the ocean earlier today to find the minisubmarine Pisces III and attach a lifeline, guided by the sound of the men singing sea chanties at the top of their lungs.

Cork harbor officials said the John Cabot, one of the vessels involved in the attempt to rescue Roger Mallinson and Roger Chapman, entombed in their tiny submarine off the Irish Coast, flashed the following message:

"Both men trapped in a small sphere. High temperature. Both delirious. Risk of CO2 poisoning and oxygen starvation."

The Vickers Voyager, mother ship for the two subs, sent a radio message reporting the linkup 1,375 feet down and said preparations were being made to haul the sunken craft to the surface.

The report said Pisces V, a more sophisticated version of the two-man Pisces III submarine which sank Wednesday, located the crippled vessel at mid-morning.

The two men aboard the sunken sub earlier were reported in "good shape" and spirits, a Vickers spokesman said.

The radio message heard in the Cork rescue center was terse, saying the Pisces V located the sunken sub and "put a hook on her."

Chino youth electrocuted in backyard

CHINO — An 8-year-old boy was electrocuted in the backyard of his parents' home here Thursday night.

Kenny Rodriguez, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rodriguez of 14929 Sandalwood Lane in the Glenmeade area of the city, was pronounced dead shortly after arrival at Chino General Hospital about 6:30 p.m.

The boy's parents told West End sheriff's deputies that their son made contact with an electrical pump as he attempted to disconnect a water hose that ran from the pump to a fish pond.

His father said that he found his son slumped over the pump. He said that he administered artificial respiration until a rescue unit from the fire department and the ambulance arrived.

When the unit had arrived, the boy was not breathing. Firemen tried unsuccessfully to revive the youth during the trip to the hospital.

Funeral arrangements for Rodriguez are pending. Honnold Mortuary in Chino is handling arrangements.

Five light earthquakes strike Imperial Valley

By United Press International

Several earthquakes struck Thursday, some of them strong enough to be felt, but none with the power to do much damage.

The strongest temblor was in the Andes mountains along the border between Colombia and Venezuela.

It shook Bogota skyscrapers for more than a minute while panicky people fled into the streets. There were no immediate reports of injuries or damage.

The quake extended along both sides of the Andes from Bogota to Caracas on the Caribbean Sea. It was one of the most powerful to hit Bogota in years, a spokesman for Colombia's Geophysic Institute said.

Five light earthquakes struck California's Imperial Valley, four of them within 56 minutes.

Cal Tech seismologists said all the quakes measured about 3.0 on the Richter scale. Residents said they felt only mild damage. No injuries were reported.

No damage was reported from an earthquake that struck the Anchorage, Alaska, area. That quake was centered in Prince William Sound, about 70 miles southeast of Anchorage and about 35 miles from Valdez, the Palmer Observatory said.

Although the earthquake could be felt in Anchorage, Whittier, Palmer, Valdez and Seward, not many persons noticed it. A harbor master at Valdez said he did not know about the temblor until a newsman called to ask about it. Thursday's earthquakes struck while clean-up operations continued in central Mexico, where an earthquake Tuesday killed more than 500 persons and injured more than 4,000.

$115 MILLION PACT

U.S. may purify Colorado water going to Mexico

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) —The United States has agreed to spend $115 million to clean up Colorado River water before it flows into Mexico, a major dispute between the two nations for 12 years.

The agreement was announced Thursday by the Western White House.

It includes construction of the world's largest desalting plant, at a cost of $67 million, and canals and waterworks in Southern Arizona and northern Mexico.

The agreement still must be approved by the U.S. Congress. There were some signs of opposition by southwestern officials.

Beaten, raped coed found in guard's trunk

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 19-year-old coed about to enroll in White Plains College was kidnaped by a campus security guard, raped, beaten and then stuffed into the trunk of his car for six hours while he was on duty, police said Thursday.

Police discovered the crime when they stopped the guard for speeding on a highway and heard a rapping noise coming from the trunk. They ordered the guard to open it and found the girl, alive but in shock and badly beaten.

She had a green plastic bag over her head and shoulders, her hands were tied to her ankles, and she was bleeding from head wounds. She was hospitalized with a broken jaw and various other head and face wounds. She was not identified.

Police charged the driver of the car, Edward Richards, 23, of New York, with attempted murder, rape, kidnaping and assault.

Fair, mild weather seen for holiday

Pomona Valley residents leaving on holiday excursions today will find fair weather and moderate temperatures almost everywhere in Southern California over the weekend.

Beaches will have overcast mornings and sunny afternoons with high temperatures of 70 degrees. Desert areas will be fair through Sunday with some isolated thundershowers today and this evening. The high desert areas can anticipate high temperatures from 88 to 89 degrees and 100 to 108 degrees in the lower deserts.

Northern desert areas will have local winds this evening.

Recreation areas in the San Bernardino Mountains will have some cloudiness and isolated thundershowers this evening and local winds, but otherwise fair weather throughout the holiday weekend. High temperatures will range in the mid-70s.

For those who plan to stay home over the weekend, Pomona Valley weather will continue the pattern of the past week with early morning cloudiness and hazy afternoon sunshine.

Temperatures will be in the high-80s and lows in the mid-50s, according to forecaster Jim Christopherson of the National Weather Service office in Riverside.

Wherever people go for the holiday the California Highway Patrol cautions it is determined to decrease the number of highway deaths this holiday weekend and will have additional cars on patrol in a special program which began Thursday.

The CHP reports that 48 persons were killed last year over the Labor Day weekend from traffic deaths.

Commissioner Walter Pudinski said the patrol will work overtime and will keep its black and white cars on the road an additional 15,326 hours during the holiday.

"The drinker, the narcotics user, the tail-gater, the speeder, slow drivers in fast freeway lanes — we will be out to get them in particular," the commissioner declared.

"And as far as drinkers are concerned, we intend to really beef up our four-part program that calls for identifying, arresting, jailing and prosecuting them."

State Motor Vehicles Director Robert C. Cozens also cautioned that motorists cited for drunk driving during the holiday weekend will face suspension or revocation of their driving licenses.

Truck chassis falls onto Montclair man

POMONA — A worker suffered chest and leg injuries Thursday when the chassis of a truck fell on him at Insured Transporters, 1420 E. Franklin Ave.

Fred Carte, 35, 5204 Bandera St., Montclair, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Carte and two other workers, Jim Stashuk, 29, 10380 Pradera St., Montclair, and Tom Parks, 23, 2266 N. Las Vegas St., had hoisted the chassis in the air to install wheels on it when it began turning in a circle. It fell as Carte tried to hold it and stop the revolutions.

Chino selects leaders for spearheading drive for tax override

CHINO — Eileen Carter, member of the planning commission, was elected to serve as general chairman of the citizens' steering committee Thursday afternoon to coordinate the campaign for the success of a tax override election here.

Mrs. Carter will direct the activities by private citizens and businessmen to get local voters to approve a 25-cent tax increase on Oct. 23 for the city's portion of the new Civic Center.

The Civic Center will be located on D Street, near Central Avenue, immediately west of the current city offices.

The new complex will house both city and county offices to provide municipal and county governmental services to West End residents.

The county is currently proceeding on the purchase of property for both entities and the city will repay the county at a later date.

The City Council approved the recommendation from City Manager Bob Fast to request a 25 cent increase per $100 assessed valuation. Other sources to finance the project will be revenue sharing and redevelopment monies.

The 25 cent increase is expected to raise $100,000 additional money if approved.

Mrs. Carter previously served as planning commission chairman from 1959 to 1968 before being re-appointed to the commission in 197[illegible]

She and her husb[illegible] who is employed in the r[illegible] engineering department[illegible] Growers, have lived in Cl[illegible].943.

Mrs. Carter served on the county site selection committee for the current Civic Center and was formerly the City of Chino's representative to the West Valley Planning Agency before its reorganization. She taught home economics at Chino High School for four years.

Other chairmen selected from the nucleus group of citizens were James Neller, president of the Chino Valley Chamber of Commerce, and Duarte Medeiros, owner of Western Appliances, fundraising; James Fero, manager and vice president of Bank of America, treasurer; Loren Stone, manager of Southern California Edison, and Carolyn Owens, former president of the Chino Parents Council, speakers' bureau and recruitment; Al McCombs, editor-publisher of the Chino Champion, publicity; and Ben Burrell, traffic referee for the county municipal court, and Ed Pine, owner of an insurance firm, endorsements and resolutions.

The committee also selected the chamber office as headquarters for its group. Persons interested in volunteering their services to the tax override campaign should call 627-6177 or visit the chamber office at 13141 Central Ave.

Neller and Fero will prepare a tentative budget for the campaign to be presented next Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the library. The group will meet each Thursday afternoon at 3:30 until the election is over.

Tests for birth defects available within days, scientist promises

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) —A scientist swamped by telephone calls from throughout the world since finding a possible link between aerosol spray adhesives and birth defects said Thursday information should be available within days to speed the testing of pregnant women.

Research by Dr. J. Rodman Seely, pediatrician at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center, led to banning of the adhesives last week by the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

"The area of greatest immediate concern is women in the early stages of pregnancy," Seely said Thursday in his first meeting with reporters.

He said an effort is being made to provide medical laboratories with specific information about what to look for in the tests.

"We are doing everything we can to get this information to private doctors by working through medical centers, the American Medical Association and others concerned," he said. "Tests have to be aimed at this specific problem. It is something not routinely looked for."

Seely, 46, discovered similar breaks and gaps in the chromosomes in both the parents and two physically deformed babies. The parents had used the spray in "foil art," a hobby in which foil is applied to various objects to make them appear metallic.

Deformaties were similar to those produced by the sedative thalidomide a decade ago.

The foiling hobby also has been popular with children, but Seely said "there is no cause for immediate concern for children exposed."

Student, 20, critical in accident

Parents let son die; his kidney saves life

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) —A 40-year-old Orlando woman was reported in good condition today following a kidney transplant from a young critically injured traffic accident victim whose parents made the decision to let him die.

Hospital officials said the kidney transplant followed the decision Tuesday night by Lester and Madeline Wojcik to halt an effort to mechanically sustain the breathing of their 20-year-old son, Paul, who doctors said had no chance of recovery.

The parents felt that if their son was to die, perhaps his kidneys could be used to save the lives of others. The youth's second kidney was flown to an undisclosed hospital in Florida where another transplant was to be made.

Young Wojcik, an outstanding student at Florida State University from nearby Winter Park, was injured Sunday night when his car was struck by another vehicle that had been stolen. The driver fled on foot and still is being sought.

Doctors told the parents their son had no chance and after discussing the matter with five surgeons and a priest, the parents ordered the respiratory tubes removed.

"The doctors told us from the beginning there was no hope," Mrs. Wojcik said. "His brain was damaged so severely the machines registered no activity. Five specialists told us he was not really living, the tubes simply forced his breath in and out."

She said they also were told by a priest that the Catholic Church holds that "extraordinary means" of preserving life, such as the respirator, need not be continued, thus removing any religious objections.

"I think it would help to be able to think there is someone who probably wouldn't be alive if Paul hadn't lived," Wojcik said.

The parents will not know until later who received the kidney transplants.

An official at Florida Hospital said today the kidneys were the only organs transplanted from the youth.

Wojcik is a guidance counselor at Lake Brantley High School and Mrs. Wojcik is a former teacher. They have one other son Mark, 25, who is studying for his masters degree at the University of South Florida.

Mother, two children hurt in collision

POMONA — Three members of one family were injured in a two-car collision at Towne and Grove avenues Thursday evening.

The victims were Mrs. Deborah Ann Lemmon, 28, 2155 N. Towne Ave., and her two children, Lisa, 7, and Mark, 3. All three were reported in satisfactory condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Mrs. Lemmon had wrist, arm and facial injuries, and both children had scalp and facial injuries.

Police reported that Mrs. Lemmon was driving south on Towne Avenue when another driver, Wardell Brown, 27, Los Angeles, turned left in front of the car. Brown had minor injuries and was released after treatment at the hospital.

Two motorists were injured in a two-car collision at San Antonio and San Bernardino avenues. Gary R. Brody, 2440 Nichols St., and Lotier I. Daniels, 1178 E. Alvarado St., both were treated at Doctors Hospital in Montclair. Daniels, who had a leg injury, remained overnight for observation.

Deaths increasing as heat wave in East continues

Heat and stagnant air brought suffering, warnings of rising death rates, and a possible smog problem today to portions of the eastern United States, including the nation's largest city.

Joseph Cimino, New York City health commissioner, said that the five-day heat wave, longest in 20 years in the metropolis, threatened the well-being of persons with chronic illnesses or the very young. Cimino said the city death rate doubled from 150 on Sunday to 300 on Tuesday.

Fear of fires

In Connecticut, authorities expressed fear of forest fires in woodlands roasting in 90-degree heat. The National Weather service said there was an "increasing threat of serious air stagnation" in the area.

The service also foresaw little change in the heat-stagnant air situation into the holiday weekend, although as industries and businesses shut down for the holiday, a lessening of demands on overloaded electric power systems could be expected.

Meanwhile, utilities continued their attempts to cope with the heavy load put on their power supplies by the full-time use of air conditioning equipment.

Northeast Utilities said their power consumption Thursday reached 12.8 million kilowatts in the New England power exchange, the third record of the summer, although there was enough capacity to transmit 400,000 kilowatts to suffering New York City.

Expressway fire

In Chicago, underground cables beneath ramps of one of the major expressways caught fire from overheating, and ramps and parts of approaching streets were closed for a time.

Boston had a 99 degree reading Thursday, breaking a record for Aug. 30. There were showers, but not enough to cool off the heat wave for any length of time.

In the Washington, D.C., area, 145 workers were sent home because air conditioning broke down in their office—the Environmental Protection Agency.

Grand Jury to probe record industry payola

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A federal grand jury soon will begin investigating the record industry in what one investigator says will be "a helluva lot bigger than the payola scandal of the 1960s," a Southland newspaper reported today.

The paper said federal and local agencies are investigating reports of Mafia infiltration of record companies, widespread payola, links with the narcotics trade, protection rackets, shakedowns, tax frauds, kickbacks and arson.

"This is a big investigation and we don't know how far it's going or what the final dimensions will be," the paper quoted an unidentified investigator as saying.

"But you can bet it'll be a helluva lot bigger than the payola scandal of the 1960s."

The probe is an expansion of the record industry investigation launched some time ago by a federal grand jury in Newark, N.J., the newspaper said.

Witnesses from Southern California, where many important people in the recording industry live, are being called before the New Jersey jury, the paper said.

Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., has been pressing for a congressional investigation of the music industry.

The investigation so far, the paper said, has turned up reports of:

—Payments to disc jockeys and music store workers of money and narcotics to get them to push records;

— Kickback schemes, in which entertainers must return 15 to 25 per cent of their pay to Mafia figures in return for bookings in Las Vegas and elsewhere;

—More than $8 million damage by suspicious fires at record warehouses and music industry buildings, which may be the work of arsonists, perhaps as part of an extortion scheme "to bring people into line."

—Links between the music world and the Mafia narcotics traffic;

—Theft of master records and tapes, used to manufacture "pirate" albums which sell for cut rates but on which the artist gets no royalty.

—Shakedowns of major recording stars, in which they get "protection" in return for 25 per cent of their income.

Toughest drug law may spur shootouts

WASHINGTON (UPI) —New York's new drug law, the toughest in the nation, either will be a success or ill cause more drug abusers to "shoot it out" with police rather than face long jail terms, the head of the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) believes.

"It can go either way," said John R. Bartels, acting administrator of the new DEA, in an interview.

The New York law goes into effect Saturday, carrying a penalty of 25 years to life in prison, depending on the amount of drug involved in a sales transaction.

John Glenn expected to run for Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Former astronaut John Glenn appears almost certain to enter the race for the 1974 Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat now held by William B. Saxbe, a Republican, it was learned today.

Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth, in 1964 ran for the Democratic nomination for the Senate against former Senator Stephen Young but dropped out of the race when he suffered an injury to his inner ear in a fall in his bathtub. In 1970, Glenn was defeated for the Democratic senatorial nomination by Cleveland millionaire Howard Metzenbaum who, also, is expected to enter the 1974 race.

Tunney pleads for his children

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., appeared in Superior Court Thursday to make a personal plea for the return of his children from Europe.

Tunney is estranged from his Dutch-born wife, Mieke, and divorce proceedings have begun. Tunney said they had agreed that their three children would spend the latter part of the summer with him, during the congressional recess. But Mrs. Tunney took the children to Europe July 28, he said, and has not returned them. The recess ends next Tuesday.

Britain rejects visit to Uganda

LONDON (UPI) —Uganda President Idi Amin invited Prime Minister Edward Heath to visit his African nation, but the British Foreign Office said Thursday Heath formally rejected the invitation.

The British government also turned down a suggestion from Amin that Britain give Uganda a loan from which compensation to dispossessed Ugandan Asians would be paid.

Heath instead suggested that bank accounts of Asians expelled from Uganda by Amin should be transferred to them immediately.

S.B. County supervisors laud death bill

SAN BERNARDINO (CNA) — The Board of Supervisors this week hailed the action of the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee in approving the death penalty bill after blocking the legislation for the past three months.

Supervisor James L. Mayfield asked the board to approve his motion that a letter — stating its insistence that the death penalty measure be passed — be sent to each of the 80 assemblymen, requesting that they back the bill which would in effect unlock the gas chamber of San Quentin prison.

"The vote of the people last fall indicated overwhelmingly that the great majority favored reinstitution of the death penalty for some crimes," Mayfield told the board. "This county recorded 20 murders last year, including two peace officers, six more than recorded the previous year, and it must be supposed that without the death penalty put into state law again, we can expect another increase in murders."

Opposition to the bill was led by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys.

Scoring Moretti's actions against the death bill Mayfield said, "For a man who has aspirations to sit in the governor's chair in Sacramento, I can't understand his actions in ignoring the wishes of two-thirds of the voters in this state."

Crippling amendments added by the committee are expected to be nullified once the bill gets on the Assembly floor, it was pointed out. Author of the bill, Sen. George Deukmajian, R-Long Beach, told newsmen he anticipated no difficulty in getting tougher restrictions added to the bill once it comes up for debate.

Deukmajian hopes to run for attorney general next year.

The letters to the 80 assemblymen and Gov. Ronald Reagan have been put in the mail in hopes they will affect the coming vote.

Sentencing delayed in murder case

ONTARIO — Sentencing of William Lattimer Wheeler, 27, on his conviction for the murder of 10-month-old Virginia Ann Dekker, has been delayed until Sept. 7 after defense counsel entered a motion for a new trial.

Wheeler, of Fontana, was found guilty in a jury trial of second-degree murder in the child's death. Virginia died March 9 after suffering two fractures of the skull.

Francine Edith Dekker, 19, the child's mother, is due in West Valley Municipal Court today for arraignment on a murder charge stemming from the incident.

527 dead, 4,075 hurt

Quake toll still mounts

ORIZABA, Mexico (UPI) — Rescue workers riding bulldozers smashed through mountains of rubble today to search for bodies still buried in the debris of the worst earthquake in Mexico's history.

The Interior Ministery released an official casualty report listing 527 dead and 4,075 injured inTuesday's pre-dan quake but more victims were being found with each passing hour.

400 coffins

The government sent 400 coffins to the quake zone in central Mexico Thursday and quickly used them all up burying victims found beneath the twisted debris of cities and towns.

The bulldozers worked round the clock in the worst-hit cities —Orizaba, Cordoba and Ciudad Cerdan — crunching through piles of wood, brick, metal, glass and stone.

Teams of doctors and nurses were inoculating hundreds of persons a day, many of them still dazed by the extent of the disaster.

Highway opened

Demolition brigades reopened the main highway linking the disaster area to Mexico City Thursday and the government quickly sent in fresh supplies of food, drinking water, blankets and clothes.

Rescue workers, however, said electricty and running water were still cut off in the battered region early today, hampering search and medical operations.

Police moved dozens of prisoners out of the cty jail in Orizaba today when the prison started to collapse like most of the other buildings in the city.

The inmates were taken by bus to the prison in Perote, 60 miles away in the peaks of the Sierra Madre mountain range. Authorities said the Orizaba jail would be demolished.

The worst previous Mexican quake claimed 150 lives in 1941.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Marjorie Payette, 44, who was hurled against the ceiling and floor of a jetliner as it was shaken in flight over the Pacific, died Thursday of a broken neck.

Mrs. Payette, of Los Angeles, was one of nine persons injured in the incident Tuesday night. Four others were hospitalized, including two stewardesses. A 16-year-old girl from Taiwan was in serious condition with face and jaw injuries, and the other women were reported recovering satisfactorily from back injuries.

Mrs. Payette's death was reported by Centinela Valley Community Hospital.

Brush fire near Yucaipa brought under control

YUCAIPA (UPI) — Fire fighters Thursday brought under control a brush fire that blackened 200 acres northeast of here.

The U.S. Forest Service said 300 men fought the blaze, which was deliberately set.

An estimated $3,000 damage resulted when the brakes on a water truck gave out and smashed two buses at the scene.

Fire fighters were also busy near the mouth of Cajon Pass, dousing five small brush firest believed to have been deliberately set.

Forty acres were burned in still another fire in the Jurupa Hills near Riverside.

San Quentin inmate killed in 2nd brawl

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) —A San Quentin Prison inmate was stabbed to death Thursday in the second brawl in two days that forced guards to fire their rifles. Two other convicts were hurt when the guards started shooting.

All 2,648 prisoners in the prison on San Francisco Bay were locked in their cells after the latest incident. Prison officials kept day shift guards on duty until late Thursday night.

Linwood Bell, 24, died about a half hour after he was stabbed by two other inmates shortly after noontime, the warden's office said.

Bell, sent to the prison two years ago from San Francisco for assault and other crimes, was attacked by Marcello Baeza and another convict, a spokesman said.

When the attackers failed to heed warning shots, a guard shot Baeza in the leg. Another inmate was cut over the eye by ricocheting debris.

Baeza, 28, was serving a sentence from Los Angeles for drug possession.

CALLED 'SWINDLE'

State workers held to 7% pay increase

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council's decision to roll back proposed pay increases for 135,000 state workers has been called a "mistake" by Gov. Ronald Reagan and a "swindle" by the California State Employes Association.

Both the governor and CSEA said the council's ruling Thursday would be challenged.

In Washington, the council announced it was holding salary increases for all California government workers to a maximum of 7 per cent. The legislature had approved pay increases averaging 11.9 per cent.

Additionally, the council said the 7 per cent figure was subject to further rollbacks for some workers who previously were paid more than allowed under the federal Economic Stabilization Act.

'Explore avenues'

Reagan directed administration officials "to vigorously pursue and explore every legal and administrative avenue open to us for achieving the full range of increases sought."

The governor said he was "deeply disappointed." He said the legislature-approved pay raises were "fully justified and necessary to correct continuing inequities in the state employe salary structure."

In calling the council's action a "swindle," CSEA demanded that Reagan join it in a pending state Supreme Court suit which questions the constitutional authority of the federal government to regulate state salaries.

Collective bargaining

The workers' group also demanded enactment of collective bargaining for state workers this year, and that Reagan "withdraw his opposition to fringe benefit improvements, as a partial offset against the loss of salary funds."

CSEA suggested Reagan meet with President Nixon "to remedy this outrageous decision." But when asked whether he would meet with Nixon, Reagan told newsmen: "I question whether any President could overrule a board. I doubt any President would want to."

In protest of the council's decision, the California Association of Highway Patrolmen asked its 6,100 members to immediately discontinue pay roll deductions for U.S. Savings Bonds.

Signify anger

"This action will put back in your pocket a few of the dollars refused by the federal government, and signify our anger concerning the unfairness of their decision," association President Norton Robinson said in a message to members.

Originally, the legislature approved the pay increases for 185,000 workers effective July 1.

Tense, quiet in Jackson, Mich.

Rebellion at prison ends after 13 hours

JACKSON, Mich. (UPI) — Officials at the largest walled prison in the country today said it will "be quite tense for awhile" after a 13-hour inmate rebellion that ended only after the use of tear gas.

The disruption at Southern Michigan Prison here began Thursday when a small group of inmates staged a work stoppage in the license plate plant. The action gathered support from some of the 2,400 inmates, with as many as 168 actually resisting pleas by officials to return to their cells.

Guards then began lobbing tear gas canisters.

Dale Foltz, acting prison warden, said in the end, just 25 inmates remained and guards "continued to lob tear gas until they were put in detention cells."

"Thing will be quite tense for a while," Foltz told a news conference.

"This small group of men hurt all the residents here and most of those who went back to their cells in the beginning will be mad."

Foltz said the work stoppages "appeared to be spontaneous," sparked by the 90-degree heat, discontent over wages and staffing structure on job assignments, where some experienced workers claimed they weren't making as much as those who were inexperienced.

Wage — 35 cents

He said the average wage in most of the industry operations was 35 cents an hour, but the average in the license plate area was well over two dollars.

Perry Johnson, director of the State Departent of Corrections, praised the guards.

"It was an admirable job," he said. "All you need in this kind of a situation is a fool."

Johnson said the entire yard had not been searched but "at least nine blades were found." Other prison officials reported the discovery of a pair of scissors and other "makeshift weapons."

Johnson said one inmate "needed oxygen" for the effects of tear gas, and was hospitalized for observation.

Land tax boost may be averted

CLAREMONT — Claremont may be able to add to the amount of revenue sharing funds it eventually receives and not increase property taxes.

At a regular adjourned meeting early today, the City Council voted to retain its present tax rate of $2.2117 per $100 of assessed valuation through the coming year and to take over whatever rate the county Board of Supervisors sets for the county library district.

As explained by City Manager Keith Mulrooney, this will merely be a shifting of tax. What is added to the city rate will be deducted from the county library district rate on the tax bill.

At the same time, it will permit the city, under new state legislation, to build its revenue sharing credit.

The county Board of Supervisors is expected to set all county tax rates when it meets Tuesday.

In its action, the City Council merely extended the current tax rate and added "plus the amount equal to the amount of money raised by the rate set by the Board of Supervisors Los Angeles County Free Library for the 1973-74 fiscal year."

Mulrooney said Claremont will get credit for revenue sharing but no cash until 1975-76, if the program remains constant and unchanged. Under those conditions, Claremont would get credit for the past year and a half. And if the program is extended, he said, Claremont would benefit for as long as the extension might cover.

Fire delays, doesn't halt park plans

SAN DIMAS — Shocked and dismayed over the recent fire that distroyed San Dimas Elementary School auditorium, City Councilmen today reaffirmed their intent to put a park there but left questions about when it would be developed and about the size of the park.

Asst. City Administrator Barbara Henderson called councilmen to get their individual opinions after Councilmen D. F. Hooper and James Lough suggested that a statement would be in order to clarify rumors going throughout the town.

Mrs. Henderson said that the rumors were that the fire would "shoot down all plans the city had to put a park there."

The council voted Monday night to negotiate with the state and school officials to purchase the five-acre site for a city park. The destruction of the auditorium of the school caused doubts about the future of the project.

Mayor Thomas Nuss said that the city would have to gauge whether it would be able to purchase the entire site for a park. "We may have to trim our sails a little and negotiate for a portion of the site."

"We still intend to have a park, and the exact size and extent of the improvement will depend upon negotiations with the state.

Hooper said the council still plans to pursue vigorously negotiations with the state to purchase the property for a park. He stated, however, that the timetable for development of the park may be set back a year or two as the result of the fire. The American Legion had intended to share the cost of the purchase and use the auditorium for a meeting place.

Councilmen also denied the reported rumors that the city planned to use the property for a parking lot.

Lough said the meeting with the state to purchase the property was even more important now "with the fire having raised so many questions."

Hearing is continued in murder case

ONTARIO — Preliminary hearing for Francine Edith Dekker, 19, of 7571 Juniper St., Fontana, charged with murder in connection with her 10-month-old daughter's death, has been continued in West Valley Municipal Court until Sept. 6.

The hearing had been set for Thursday, but was continued by stipulation of Mrs. Dekker's attorney.

Mrs. Dekker was arrested in July after new evidence was turned up linking her to the incident. Her former boyfriend, William Lattimer Wheeler, 27, of Fontana, was found guilty of second degree murder in the infant's death by a Superior Court jury July 11.

He was scheduled to be sentenced Wednesday, but the action was postponed when Wheeler's attorney's made a motion for a new trial.

Zoo accused in deaths of two giraffes

LOSANGELES (UPI) —The Committee to Save the Giraffes Thursday accused the Los Angeles City Zoo of causing death of two giraffes, a pregnant female and its mate.

The female died July 5 and the male died Aug. 14, but their deaths drew little public notice at the time.

Michelle Pugh, 18, organizer of the giraffe committee, now says she can prove the animals died because they were unable to stand on the slippery floors of their stalls, and fell down. The second death, more than 5 five weeks after the first, could have been prevented if zoo officials had learned the lesson, she said.

She said committee members would picket the zoo Monday.

Acting Zoo Director Ralph Crane said "we just don't go along" with the slippery floor theory.

The animals were found in sitting positions, unable to rise, he conceded, but they died from the effects of tranquilizers given them in an attempt to quiet them so they could be taken outside to stand up. "Tranquilization of any animal is a risky process," he said.

Workmen were sent to the giraffe stalls Thursday, he said, to apply another coat of paint mixed with sand to the floor. The animals were worth $18,000.

Man accused of threatening Nixon released

TAOS, N. M. (UPI) —Edwin M. Gaudet Jr., a former New Orleans policeman who allegedly threatened President Nixon's life, Thursday was released on $10,000 bond and returned to his New Mexico commune home.

Gaudet had been in the Taos County jail since he was arrested Aug. 22 on a New Orleans warrant alleging he threatened the life of the President.

That charge was dropped when a New Orleans woman said she could not identify Gaudet as the man she heard make the threat Aug. 15.

Gaudet was then charged with assault with intent to kill three Taos policemen.

Police said secret service agents and Gaudet exchanged gunfire during an attempt to arrest him. Two of the counts were dropped and Gaudet's bond, originally set at $100,000, was reduced on several successive court appearances.

Foster children payments upped

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State payments for foster children would be increased by $30 a month per child under a bill which has won unanimous passage from the Assembly.

The bill (AB2034) by Assemblyman Bob Wilson, D-La Mesa, was sent to the Senate Thursday on a 61-0 vote.

Currently, the state's 40,000 foster children receive allowances of between 22 and 31 cents per meal, which Wilson said must be increased to give the youngsters decent care.

Two countries once joined?

Geologists believe that in the Pleistocene era the English Channel was only a gulf and England was joined to Europe by a land bridge. The sea cut through the bridge, probably some 10,000 years ago, to form the Strait of Dover.

For Saturday, Sept. 1

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will make a major error in judgment today. Later, you'll correct this mistake, but not without anguish.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't make empty promises. You'll later be held accountable, talked about or even embarrassed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're prone to slough off and not give work or services for others the best you can.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone you find attractive will tempt you to stray today. Your more practical side should keep you out of trouble.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) To impress someone you will be overly generous. You'll not be anxious to tell the family what you did.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In order to protect your self-interests you will not be as frank and open as you should be.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You will be very wasteful today. You'll yield to impulses for self-gratification. Moderation, discipline are needed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be cautious today in dealing with people you don't know too well. Otherwise, you'll be taken.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will make a decision today between baser desires and higher ideals. You'll waver, but you'll come through.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Before you're involved in something with a friend, take a good look at the cost. Take time to decide.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19) Your reputation is very vulnerable today. Keep this in mind.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You will act without having all the facts you should. Make no major commitment just to pacify another.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

You have a promising year ahead, provided you don't make work or career changes foolishly. Many short, pleasant trips will keep you on the go.

CHP crackdown on truck speed cutting fatals

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A California Highway Patrol crackdown on trucks travelling at excessive speeds has cut a previously growing rate of fatal and injury accidents involving such vehicles, CHP Commissioner Walter Pudinski reported.

Fatal and injury accidents involving such trucks climbed 41 per cent in the first quarter of 1973 compared to last year, but the increase dropped to 13 per cent in the second quarter, Pudinski said.

He said no one type of truck was basically responsible for the accdents. Research, he added, indicated that vehicles ranging from small delivery vans to truck and trailer combinations were involved.

Pudinski also reported that accidents in which only one truck was involved—a roll over or similar accident—almost tripled in the first quarter but showed a lesser 46 per cent increase in the April, May and June span.

Arsonists hit school houses

LAMONT (UPI) —Arsonists set fires at two school houses in Lamont Tuesday night causing an estimated $50,000 damage, a spokesman for the fire department said.

Both fires were started about 9:00 p.m. at the Lamont School and the Myrtle Avenue School. The fire in the Lamont School was started in a supply room and in a classroom at the Myrtle Avenue School.

Officials said the fires will not affect the opening of school next week, although some classes will have to be shifted to other facilities.

Pomona leads nation in scope of program

Bilingual instruction to reach 1,000 in all grades

POMONA — Bilingual education, featuring instruction in Spanish and English, has gained a firm foothold in the Pomona Unified School District.

When school starts, some 1,000 pupils in eight elementary schools, two junior high schools and one high school will have teachers who speak both languages. These 1,000 pupils will be from Spanish-language backgrounds.

Assisting the 15 teachers assigned to the bilingual teaching program will be 19 bilingual teaching aides.

A group of 60, including the teachers, instructional aides and parents, today are completing a 10-day, in-service training workshop at Hamilton Elementary School where they are being taught methods and techniques of bilingual instruction.

The workshop is being conducted by the Title VII Bilingual Program staff of Cal State Fullerton, headed by director and associate dean, Dr. Anthony M. Vega. Those enrolled are concentrating on techniques of teaching reading, math, social studies and leadership in both Spanish and English.

A group of enthusiastic parents is learning techniques for participating in and evaluating school programs. They plan to organize a district advisory committee to support the bilingual program.

Ken Noonan, director of Pomona Unified School District's Title VII Bilingual Program, said that a major shift in direction this year is moving Pomona into a leadership position in bilingual education in California.

"While Pomona has had an official Title VII Bilingual Program (Title VII is a federally funded program) for four years, it has only functioned at two junior high schools and served about 300 students a year," Noonan said.

"Recent changes will see it expanded from the two junior high schools into eight elementary schools, two junior high schools and one high school."

He added that of the nearly 300 bilingual programs across the county, Pomona's is the only one to have successfully developed a kindergarten through 12th grade program in so short a time.

A recently conducted language dominance survey in Pomona indicated that 3,583 children in grades kindergarten through 12th come from Spanish language backgrounds.

"Often, when a child grows up in a two-language world," said Noonan, "he doesn't become a particularly proficient reader in either language, although he may seem to function well in oral English.

"This oral English proficiency may be deceptive however, since the combination of a limited English vocabulary and poor reading skills categorize him as an underachiever."

A bilingual program enables a student to learn his basic concepts and skills in his strongest language, especially reading and math. Then, Noonan explained, the transistion to applying these learned skills and concepts in the second language is much easier and the student's progress is continuous at grade level rather than retarded because of language.

"Research indicates, for example, that a Spanish-speaking primary grade student will learn enough English within two years to take instruction in English," said Noonan.

"But by then the student will have lost two years of math and reading skills and may funution well in English, but two years or more behind his English speaking classmates."

The bilingual program is a successful solution to this problem, Noonan said, because children develop skills and concepts as they learn their second language.

Likewise, children from non-Spanish speaking backgrounds, living in this California environment which has the heritage of Spain and Mexico, benefit from a bilingual program by learning Spanish and gaining an appreciation of the rich Hispanic culture in which they live.

Noonan said that reading and math will be emphasized in the bilingual programs at Alcott, Philadelphia, Washington, Lexington, Hamilton, Madison, Roosevelt and Westmont elementary schools this fall.

Bilingual teachers will be assigned classrooms at Fremont and Simons junior high schools and at Garey High School.

At the secondary level, Noonan said, the teachers will concentrate on world history, U.S. history, mathematics, written and oral expressing and leadership development.

All of the schools will feature English as a second language as a component of their bilingual programs.

"This program is designed to grow each year," said Noonan. "We're just seeding the bed."

Martha Gonzales is bilingual resource specialist at the Bilingual Resource Center at Hamilton. Sonia Arreguin is her assistant.

The public may visit the center weekdays between 7:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. The telephone number there is 623-5251, extension 399.

Some parents involved in the training are Mrs. Maria Teresa Guriel, Mrs. Guadalupe Sandoval, Mrs. Helen Plummer and Mrs. Cruzita Alvarado.

"I've learned more about education and bilingual programs in one short week than I thought was possible," said Mrs. Alvarado. "Now I feel really prepared to work for my school and our kids."

Stools here; family takes news sitting down

We purchased four bar stools on June 22 from a San Gabriel Valley firm for $201.35.

Delivery was promised in "about six weeks." We have called the firm three times to ask about the delivery date and they couldn't or wouldn't give us any information. They said that they had no record of purchase, that they had changed bookkeepers (I don't know what that has to do with files and records) and they would have to check with the home office.

On Aug. 14 they promised to return my call. When they didn't my husband canceled the order and asked for a refund.

We were informed by them that they cannot cancel the order. We do not want the merchandise. We only wish a refund of the full amount of purchase as they have used our money all this time—Mrs. J. P., Upland.

We called the firm and discovered the bar stools were ready for delivery. Your phone number is unlisted because you are a night worker and that seems to have complicated your problem. The store office had your number but the delivery department did not.

After thinking it over, you decided to accept delivery, so now you have a load off your mind and your feet.

As executor for my aunt, I have a problem and maybe you can help me. What happened to my aunt could be a lesson to other older people who are being taken advantage of by unscrupulous salesmen.

She paid $150 and turned over her other cleaner to meet a sales price of $249.50 for a new vacuum cleaner. The checks were made out by the salesman and only signed by my aunt, which certainly indicates her poor state of health.

At the time of the purchase, she had been released from the hospital after a close brush with death. Her heart ailment finally took her on April 25. She couldn't afford the cleaner and it must have been very persistent selling.

The reason the trailer court where she lived is posted with "no solicitation" signs is that most all the people who live there are elderly. The warning is supposed to be a protection to them.

I think it is disgusting that the salesman made out her checks in order to receive payment.—B.T., Claremont.

You sent copies of three checks which had been signed by your aunt but made out by the salesman for Vac-U-Way Corp.

Out letter to the head office in Toledo brought a phone call from the West Coast sales manager. He said your aunt had owned the cleaner six months. If she had not been satisfied with her purchase, he claimed, she would have received her money back.

Had your aunt been a resident of Claremont, as you are, she would have been protected from house-to-house solicitation by the municipal code.

I have a son who was discharged from the Air Force in December. Having completed a course in heating and air conditioning, he went to work for a Pomona firm.

He was to receive benefits for "on-the-job" training. I called the Los Angeles office of the Veterans Administration some time last month and received a form reply dated June 7 which said, "Your claim is being processed and you will receive a reply from our office."

I telephoned the office and talked with a VA representative but it seems really impossible to find out what is happening.

My son, who lives on his own in Pomona, has been trying to get by without a large salary.—A.M., Claremont.

We contacted the VA office twice, first after we received your letter and a second time after you telephoned saying your son had been laid off due to a business slow-up.

Four days after the second contact, we were notified that the VA had issued a "hardship" payment to you covering six months of on-the-job training benefits and amounting to more than $900.

I am writing this for my mother, who is having trouble with an order sent to Greenland Studios on April 9. it was accompanied by her check in the amount of $10.23, which has cleared her bank with the endorsement of Greenland Studios.

She has never received the merchandise or a refund.—E.M., La Verne.

This is our first complaint in several months about Greenland Studios. The response that a refund had been issued was quite prompt, following our letter to the firm.

WRONG CATCH

Bruce Richards, director of the Pomona Valley Humane Society, uses a dog to demonstrate one of the cages set out in the Ganesha and Padua hills to catch coyotes. No coyotes were trapped, but the cages did trap dogs, cats, raccoons, rabbits and even an opossum. The cages have been removed.

Traps placed in Ganesha and Padua Hill areas fail to catch wily coyotes

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

POMONA — Coyotes roaming the nearby hills are apparently too cagey to be caged.

For the past 19 days, three large box traps have been placed in the Ganesha and Padua hills in hopes of catching these wily animals.

These cages have been successful in trapping animals — but not the elusive coyotes.

Animals trapped include three cats (two strays), three raccoons, four dogs, one opossum and two rabbits.

Three of the dogs belonged to residents, with the fourth being taken to the Pomona Valley Humane Society, said Bruce Ricyards, director.

Two raccoons were also released at the scene. The third had been so severely injured in a previous fight that he had to be "put to sleep," added Richards.

The opossum and wild rabbits were also released from the traps.

Two traps had been placed in the Ganesha Hills and one in Padua Hills after some residents expressed concern the coyotes might attack their small pets. Several persons said the coyotes were getting close to their homes.

"Coyotes were seen near the traps, but they wouldn't go inside;" said Richards. "They appear to be very intelligent and were very cautious."

One coyote was seen trying to tip over one cage to have the bait fall out. When the spring door snapped, it sent the animal scurrying, he added.

Most residents used tuna fish in the traps for bait. The tuna fish retains its odor longer than other meats and doesn't attract insects.

"Some people did try hamburger and even fried chicken," said Richards.

How many coyotes are roaming the Ganesha Hills? Officials of the California Land Management estimate the number between six and 10. This estimate resulted from a study made of the number of coyote activities there, he noted.

"Coyotes will not overpopulate. They will share a territory but will not trespass into another coyote's area. Coyotes will not run in a pack, but two will sometimes work together in catching game."

According to the land management officials, the coyotes are not making their homes in the Ganesha Hills but use it as an access in getting from one point to another.

"Their main feeding point is near Puddingstone Dam where there is an ample supply of ducks," said Richards.

The coyotes have been seen romping through the Ganesha Hills going in a southwest direction toward the San Bernardino Freeway.

Richards expressed some doubt on the land management finding. "I am really wondering if they have found the Ganesha Hills area resting place or a home."

For residents living in these two areas, Richards said they will have to meet the coyote problem halfway.

"We have been told that some residents have buried fresh garbage on their property" he noted. "If a person throws in the garbage loosely and packs the dirt on top of it loosely, a coyote can pick up the scent of fresh garbage."

Richards suggested the residents place the garbage in plastic bags and place these in garbage cans with tight-fitting lids.

He also proposed that residents feed their pets inside the homes or under their direct supervision.

"If they set food outside, this will tend to attract the coyotes. If they would bring the dishes in at night, this would also be a way of keeping the coyotes away from the door."

Coyotes are not likely to come close to a house during the day, he explained. "They might do this at night."

Richards said he plans to pick up the traps and use them in the cities for catching stray dogs.

Zappella trial arguments end in local court

POMONA — Closing arguments were concluded today in Superior Court in the case of Dr. David G. Zappella, a former Pomona psychiatrist who is charged with 16 counts of Medi-Cal fraud here in 1970.

Judge Glenn M. Pfau was expected to instruct the jury later in the day on the law pertaining to the case before the panel would retire to reach a verdict.

The trial began Aug. 21.

Zappella, who now lives in San Diego, is accused of billing and accepting money from the state for services he did not render, and for allowing unqualified persons working for him to perform psychotherapy.

He has denied both charges.

POMONA — Eleven Pomona Valley residents have joined the ranks of over 1,300 entrants in the Home Arts division of the 46th Los Angeles County Fair, which begins its 17-day run here Sept. 14.

Upland residents participating in the home arts competition include Angie Finney, Bobby, Peter and Teresa Reinfenrath, Shirleyann Van Dyken, Debbie and Sharon Van Lieu and Melba Wigington. Also entered are Jan S. Freeman of Chino, Olinda Fritz and Jane Janousek of Diamond Bar.

Winning entries will be displayed in the home arts building on the grounds throughout the fair. Other fair attractions include varied displays and divisional competition. Highlighting the fair will be nightly circus and rodeo grandstand shows, open to the public free of charge.

'New' arms race duel of scientists

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger's disclosures on Russian missile breakthroughs make it clear the U.S.-Soviet arms race will be more than ever a contest in technology, not numbers.

It will be a duel between scientists.

This will be true whatever treaties are signed and whatever limits imposed.

With numbers becoming less relevant, neither the U.S. or the U.S.S.R. can afford to ease up scientifically. The laggard could awaken some morning, shocked to find the other nation leapfrogging ahead in a major way-out weapons system which would leave the country which scrimped on science naked and exposed.

The techological race means these things:

A wider variety of strategic and technical weapons, but smaller numbers of each type.

No breakthroughs will give either the U.S. or Russia an advantage for long. There will be an increasing ability in each country to emulate the exploits of the other in quick time.

Weapons systems will rapidly grow obsolete as the pace of breakthroughs speeds up.

In summary, there will be a great instability in weapons systems. But curiously enough, this very instability may mean overall a greater international political-military stability or balance of power. For with both nations going all-out scientifically, neither could hold a critical or commanding lead for any significant period.

As evidence of the above reasoning, the Russians are currently running their military scientific laboratories at full tilt and steadily increasing their output.

The breadth and imagination of the Soviet missile program was what surprised Defense Secretary Schlesinger more than the immediate technical advance in Soviet missiles.

U.S. military laboratories, too, have been going full steam on dramatic new techniques in guidance, the use of lasers and in low-flying missiles less subject to radar detection.

The current arms talks are aimed at limiting quality as well as numbers. But technology is like water: Damned in one direction, it will keep searching until it finds another path. There is simply no way of writing an agreement which can hold back technological advances — at lease in the present state of the world.

What must be remembered is that this country has served notice, for obvious reasons, that we will sign no agreement which cannot be verified. Since the Soviet Union will not permit on site inspection, in practical terms this means we will only agree to restrictions which can be seen and measured by spy satellite.

What goes on in research laboratories can't be measured by satellite. A good deal of the follow-on development work can be hidden or disguised. In most cases we are able to learn about major new weapons and their characteristics only when they are flight-tested or otherwise displayed.

By such time, this could require a considerable amount of catching up. That catching up period could be a hairy one indeed unless the country catching up has continued to develop a formidable amount of the far-out technology needed to meet any unexpected developments.

The changing world described above does not necessarily mean major increases in defense expenditures. It does, however, require an imaginative rechanneling of defense funds and a rigid weeding out of "good" projects of secondary importance.

Bob's barber and his sound advice

WASHINGTON — When former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman went before the Senate Watergate committee for his three days of grilling, the gentle Biblical advice of his Baptist barber still range in his ears.

The haughty Haldeman wanted to look his best for the TV cameras. So on Sunday, the day before he testified, he asked his old friend Jack Allen, a barber at the House of Representatives, to shape the famous Haldeman "butch" haircut.

Allen takes pride in his haircuts for the mighty. But his deeper devotion is to his Baptist creed which he mildly but persuasively preaches to his clients.

As the Baptist barber clipped and combed the hair of the Christian Scientist, the two men fell to talking about Senate Watergate chairman Sam Ervin's admonition to Haldeman's friend and former colleague, John Ehrlichman. The Bible-quoting North Carolinian had taken his text for Ehrlichman from Galatians:

"God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Allen's busy scissors paused a moment and said softly to Haldeman that perhaps a more kindly message from Saint Paul, also in Galatians, might be worth considering as he took the witness chair before the relentless probing.

"But the fruit of the Spirit," quoted the barber, "is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law."

The next day, Haldeman began his three arduous days under the TV lights in the supercharged, hostile atmosphere of the old Senate caucus room.

Whether it was the tactical advice of his shrewd lawyers, or the wise words of his barber friend that did it, Haldeman parried even the toughest examinations by senators with the "longsuffering, gentleness" and "meekness" urged almost 2,000 years ago on the "foolish Galatians" by the Apostle. The general approval that greeted Haldeman's abandonment of past arrogance is evidence that the barber's Biblical advice was sound.

FOOTNOTE: Allen has a color portrait of Haldeman in his shop inscribed to "A true master of his trade, with appreciation and friendship." Allen told our reporter Bob Owens that his other clients include White House aides Mel Laird and Peter Flanigan; Treasury Secretary George Shultz and former White House aide Alexander Butterfield, who exposed the White House tapes and is now federal aviation administrator.

NUCLEAR HIJACK? Unguarded fuel piles for nuclear power plants soon may be tapped by sneak thieves or raided by armed gangs for the precious radioactive material needed to make bootleg A-bombs.

Legitimate fears of such raids by the Mafia, terrorists or political adventurers bent on blackmail or destruction were detailed earlier in this column from a confidential Ford Foundation report. Besides sounding a warning, the 575-page draft offers recommendations to plug holes in nuclear plant and transportation security.

"The present U.S. safeguards. . . are inadequate," is the blunt warning from the report's author-scientists, Prof. Mason Willrich and Theodore Taylor. A major problem is that pilferage of only small amounts of the material is needed for weapons of unthinkable horror.

Yet incredibly, the federal government has no "specific physical protection requirements for less than two kilograms of plutonium" — far more than is needed for the bombs.

Nor are there adequate rules for protecting the material during "storage (or) transit," even though at $15,000 per kilogram, its value is greater than gold.

Instead of facing up to security problems, say the authors, the "Atomic Energy Commission has simply deferred the problem." The AEC could build a federal nuclear police force "with the sole responsibility of preventing unlawful diversion of nuclear material." In a shoot-out, ordinary plant guards would be no match for armed and determined criminal bands, the report points out.

President Nixon should appoint a commission to draft nuclear safeguards for plant security before the nuclear plants mushroom, recommended the Ford study.

America, it notes, has "been concerned primarily with the dangers of malfunctioning machines . . . We can no longer ignore the dangers of malfunctioning man . . . What he discovers, he normally uses — and abuses."

Fearing this abuse, many conservationists say that the safeguards will never match the danger. They contend nuclear plants are simply too risky to build, particularly ones which will soon produce deadly plutonium in unprecedented quantities.

A Los Angeles City Councilman claims that advertising on bus benches constitutes sight pollution. Add that to all the other forms of pollution with which we are plagued and can you blame me for wailing: Where can one go to get away from it all?

In the back of my mind I had always kept the Antarctic as a possible out. Certainly, I thought, that should be far enough off civilization's beaten path to still remain pure and undefiled. Which only shows what wishful thinkers we mortals be. Only this morning I picked up my newspaper and learned that in that supposedly pristine Antarctic the penguins are now being endangered by pollution.

INSIDE REPORT

Richardson bypasses Nixon on Kent case

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson's politically charged decision to reopen the Kent State killings without consulting a highly skeptical White House reflects the Justice Department's sudden separation from presidential direction.

Since his appointment as Attorney General in the crisis atmosphere of April 30, Richardson has not only been independent of the White House but effectively disembodied from it. He runs his own satrapy, proclaiming decisions that often totally surprise the White House. In lesser degree, the same process is taking place in other departments.

This partly stems from deliberate decentralization policies by President Nixon's new domestic counselor, Melvin R. Laird. As such, it is a welcome, long-overdue corrective to the centralization intended by Laird's predecessor, John D. Ehrlichman, to emasculate the cabinet-level departments—leading to Watergate. But some Republicans fear runaway decentralization, particularly at Justice, reflects a dangerous turning away from domestic problems by President Nixon in the wake of Watergate.

The Justice Dpeartment is the most important showcase of this both because its activities are politically vital and because it was intimately tied to the Nixon White House until April 30. In his early years as Attorney General, John N. Mitchell was Mr. Nixon's closest political adviser. As his influence faded, an increasingly powerful Ehrlichman began poking around in Justice Department business. Mitchell's successor, Richard G. Kleindienst, fought to keep Ehrlichman from running the Justice Department, but nevertheless was constantly in touch with the White House.

Richardson has operated on his own from his first big decision: selecting Prof. Archibald Cox as special prosecutor without consulting the White House. Astounded presidential advisers correctly predicted that Cox, a Kenney-McGovern Democrat, would not be content with prosecuting the Watergate scandal but would reopen old Nixon cans of worms, such as the ITT affair.

This pattern had become set by the time of Richardon's Aug. 8 speech pledging to take the Justice Department out of politics. Despite the political impact, Richardson did not discuss it in advance with the White House.

The operation of the Justice Department as a separate fiefdom is best shown in reopening the fatal shooting of four Kent State University students by Ohio National Guardsmen during the 1970 student disturbance. As part of a Nixon hard line, Mitchell ruled out a grand jury investigation. Kleindienst, taking over in June 1972, had no inclination to reverse his former chief.

The recommendation to reopen the case came this summer from J. Stanley Pottinger, Assistant Attorney General for civil rights. Had Kleindienst still been in charge, he unquestionably would have conferred with White House senior aides. They would have advised that reopening Kent State would damage the President without furthering the national good.

These presidential lieutenants would have given the same advice to Richardson. But Richardson did not ask before approving Pottinger's proposal. On Aug. 2, Pottinger traveled to the White House to inform counsel Leonard Garment that a resumed Kent State investigation would be announced that day.

What makes such independence critically important is Richardson's instinctive desire — the antithesis of Mitchell — to accept proposals for Justice Department offensives from Pottinger, 33, an aggressive liberal whose appointment last February was secretly fought by conservative Republicans.

Clarke Reed, powerful Republican state chairman of Mississippi with intimate ties to the Mitchell-Kleindienst Justice Department, complained that Pottinger was too liberal as civil rights chief at the Health, Education and Welfare Department. Reed was reassured by Frederic V. Malek, the administration's personnel chief and a lieutenant of the then mighty H. R. Haldeman. "He (Pottinger) does what he's told," Malek told Reed.

Whether Pottinger would have done what the White House told him is now moot, bcause nobody there is telling him anything. Accordingly, his division has turned aggressive. Pottinger pushed for all-out investigation of the Collinsville, Ill., narcotics raids, resulting in indictment of 11 law officers. Reversing the old Mitchell policy of hands off the Deep South, a voting rights suit was filed in Mississippi Aug. 7. The next possible target: racial discrimination on state police forces.

With some justification, conservatives claim the Richardson-Pottinger initiatives no longer reflect policies Richard M. Nixon pledged to carry out. Some fire-eaters at the White House staff would like the President to sack Richardson (along with Archie Cox) when — if ever — his political stock recovers enough.

To USIA, a 'well done'

The United States Information Agency observed its 20th anniversary this month, and received from President Nixon a well merited "well done."

Established as an independent agency by President Eisenhower in 1953, the USIA carries the responsibility of implementing the previously enunciated policy of increasing "mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries."

It does this through 169 posts in 100 countries. Its tools for communicating U.S. policies and portraying the American society include motion pictures, radio, television, exhibits, personal contact, libraries, English language instruction, translations and many other similarly effective methods of reaching people's minds, and hearts.

The Voice of America, considered by many as being USIA's most effective operation, broadcasts radio programs in 36 languages, 858 hours per week. Of those programs, 250 are daily news broadcasts of reliable and authoritative information.

In his congratulatory message to USIA Director James Keogh and the entire international staff, President Nixon pointed out that "as we have moved from an era of confrontation to a new and challenging period of negotiation, USIA's efforts take on new importance," he added:

"Truly, there is a need today for a communications effort in support of our diplomatic initiatives to build a durable structure of peace in which those who would influence others will do so by the strength of their ideas, not by the force of their arms."

Despite USIA's ideological and fiscal would-be saboteurs in Congress, its continuing role in that vital effort is indeed, and will be, a "job well done."

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Good old days weren't so good

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A late summer heat wave combined with a stagnant high pressure system combined with auto exhaust fumes combined with God knows what else has produced a week of air pollution alerts in cities along the east coast.

As one makes one's way, blinking and choking, through the noxious haze, one may have some trouble looking upon the bright side. But it can be done.

One can, for instance, remind one's self that, on balance, smog is better than horse manure.

This cheering prescription for keeping the pollution crisis in proper perspective is set forth in the current issue of Intellectual Digest.

An article by Don H. Berkebile, originally published by Smithsonian Magazine, notes that at times when the vile emissions of motor vehicles have befouled the air nearly past the point of breathability, there is a tendency to turn nostalgic. Along with turning blue in the face.

We may find ourselves longing for the return of the horse and buggy. Writes Berkebile: cool it!

He has done some research on city life before the days of the horseless carriage and has found that the old gray mare was of questionable ecological value, to put it mildly.

At the turn of the century, New York City faced a daily task of coping with more than 1,000 tons of horse manure deposited on its streets as a result of equine transport. Moreover, says Berkebile:

"Manure waiting to be cleaned up from the streets bred billions of flies, which carried at least 30 diseases, some of them quite serious . . .

"The urine from the horses couldn't be collected. It added to the filth and stench of the streets and made them dangerously slippery . . .

"Dead horses presented another problem. In New York and Chicago around 1900, as many as 15,000 horses a year had to be hauled off."

Apart from these environmental problems, the horse and carriage was difficult to park and had a safety record that would have thwarted a regiment of Ralph Naders.

To give you an idea, runaway horses, capsized coaches and other carriage accidents were causing 700 deaths and 5,000 injuries a year in Paris, France, late in the 19th Century.

After reading Berkebile's report, I went out into the streets and inhaled several deep draughts of odious vapors from the exhaust pipes of passing autos.

It made me feel good all over.

Something in return

Congress is going to increase your taxes — which will be justified as a means of "dampening inflation."

Rather than curtail the orgy of government spending, which has brought on inflation, political leaders expect to reduce the money supply by taking away your money.

Supposedly this tax increase will be to your benefit, but the unanswered question is, "Why will you be any better off losing your money to taxes than you would have been spending it on higher priced items?" At least when you spend the money, no matter how expensive the goods you buy, you still obtain something in return.

Complain now or be taxed later!—C.C. Moseley, Glendale.

D.B. group will end redistricting drive if walnut votes against issue

By JOE FARLEY
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — A nine month-old drive to redistrict North Diamond Bar schools into the Walnut district will not be reactivated should the aging proposal be turned down by school officials here, its chief proponent says.

"Should the trustees vote it down any hopes of beginning the matter again or bring Diamond Bar under one school district are virtually nil," redistricting leader Nick Ruggiero said.

The Diamond Bar Homeowners Association, which Ruggiero represents, began its redistricting campaign late in 1972. It hopes to unify Diamond Bar under one school district by transferring the area's 2,700 students out of the Pomona and into the Walnut district's jurisdiction.

School trustees are closer than they have ever been to deciding the controversial issue. A public hearing on the proposal last month, held within 30 days of receipt of petitions containing signatures of 2,430 Diamond Bar residents for the proposal, has been continued to Sept. 17.

Officials said they would decide the issue at that date.

Regardless of the decision, Ruggiero said the current redistricting drive will be the last in the north Diamond Bar community.

"I'm still optimistic about the outcome. The advantages clearly outweigh the disadvantages to the Walnut district," Ruggiero said. 'This would be the golden opportunity to achieve consolidation." He said the annexation would improve Walnut's enrollment picture and speed up the possibility of a second high school within the district.

Walnut High School is currently overcrowded, Ruggiero said, but can't justify a new high school or sufficient additions until sometime in the 1980s. If Diamond Bar were annexed a new Diamond Bar high school could be constructed in 1976. The redistricting would also improve overcrowding on the kindergarten through eighth grade levels, he said, because north Diamond Bar schools have empty classrooms.

"I think the trustees indicated in school board elections that they were against the proposal based on information then available," Ruggiero said. "I feel at this point and time the facts are different, so I hope they will look at it in light of the new information."

The new information includes a lower tax hike than originally predicted should the redistricting take place. Instead of the 36 cents per $100 of assessed valuation originally estimated, the increase would be 20 cents, which would decrease yearly, he said.

"When the board members sit down and think about some of these points they will hopefully realize they are talking good money and good sense if they approve the addition," Ruggiero said.

Should trustees vote yes, the proposal would be passed on to the Pomona school board, then to county school officials for consideration. A no vote by any governing board along the way completely kills the proposal, however.

"I don't plan on delivering anything new at the September meeting. I think we pretty well delivered the message and it's up to the trustees now," Ruggiero said.

Montoya bill, prompted by valley redistricting problem, won't help

WALNUT — Emergency legislation, drafted by Assemblyman Joseph Montoya to allow a community election on a proposed school redistricting measure, will have virtually no effect on the current redistricting proposal before Walnut trustees.

Montoya expressed surprise at new that his bill, to be introduced on the Assembly floor today and then speeded on to the Senate and Rov. Reagan for signing, would not affect the proposed transfer of north Diamond Bar from the Pomona to Walnut school district.

Montoya had created the billl, sought its approval by the Assembly Education Committee and pushed for its passage as "urgency legislation" so Walnut trustees could conduct the election on the controversial proposal.

Current law doesn't permit an election on the issue within the Walnut district, leaving the decision up to school trustees. Walnut Supt. David Brown explained that the new legislation will not affect the local situation because the redistricting process began under current law.

The bill was drafted at the request of local school officials, who have been caught in the middle of Diamond Bar support and Walnut opposition to the nine-month-old proposal.

"Montoya's bill changes the redistricting procedure, but only for transfers initiated subsequent to the signing of the bill," Brown said.

Similar redistricting legislation created by Montoya several months ago was rejected by Walnut school officials as unsatisfactory. The improved version now before the Assembly was created upon the advice of Brown and others.

Brown said today, however, that he didn't realize Montoya was pushing the bill through as urgency legislation. "The board's indication was that even though we wouldn't be affected by the bill we should still push for it because we have an obligation to other boards affected in the future," he said.

The new bill would also alter the procedure for transmitting citizen petitions for redistricting moves. The Walnut school board currently receives the petitions first and must make its decision before Pomona trustees. The new legislation would give the losing school district, or Pomona, the first redistricting decision or election.

The bill doesn't require that an election be held, but gives trustees the option of deciding the proposal themselves or turning the matter over to a community vote.

"Unless the Department of Education down the line somewhere should raise some questions there should be no reason for the bill not to go through," Montoya said. "After Reagan signs it the only thing left is for the secretary of state to chapter it into law, so in essence it would go into effect immediately after Reagan's signature because it is emergency legislation."

Walnut Valley water rate drops 4½ cents

WALNUT — Taxpayers within the Walnut Valley Water District will be paying 4½ cents less in the general district tax rate during the current fiscal year.

The district's board of directors adopted a $1,024,250 budget this week calling for a $.6671 cent tax rate per $100 of assessed valuation, down from last year's $.7143 rate.

The rate within Improvement District Two has been reduced $1.14 to $2.0975 per $100 of assessed valuation due to an extremely low delinquency rate, accelerated bond indebtedness payoff and more customers within the district, according to Ed Biederman, general manager.

The reduced tax rates come despite increased water costs because of unexpected district growth and a 4 per cent increase in assessed valuation, Biederman said.

The cost of water the district purchases from the Metropolitan Water District has been increased $6.85 per acre foot to $68.60. The district is expecting a 10 per cent increase in service connections this fiscal year, bringing the district-wide total to 5,100 and offsetting the increased costs, he said.

Adult school will offer gem classes

LA PUENTE — The revival of interest in precious stones, hand-crafted jewelry and mineral collecting has prompted the La Puente Community Adult School to offer two classes in jewelry arts starting Sept. 11.

Classes will meet each Monday and Wednesday from 6:45 to 10:15 p.m. in Room 10B on the Hudson campus.

The art of gem cutting and the process of casting gold and silver will be taught. Field trips, designed to acquaint pupils with known locations and gem materials, are planned.

Rowland Adult School

Variety of horticulture, craft classes on agenda

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — A series of 12-week courses in horticulture and arts and crafts will be offered this fall in the Rowland-Walnut Valley area by the Rowland Adult School.

Included in the listings are home gardening and landscaping, ornamental horticulture, still life and oil painting, jewelry, wood and leather crafts, lapidary, ceramics, decorative arts and wood and clay sculpture.

In addition, there will be a vocational grounds and landscaping program course in turf grass management and pest control. These will be the first two in a series of eight nine-week courses which will lead to vocational competency in the ground-landscaping profession.

Classes will meet at Nogales, Rowland and Walnut high schools.

A morning art class will meet at the Equestrian Center in Diamond Bar.

Those wishing to register may contact the Rowland Adult School office at 1830 Nogales St. The telephone number is (213) 965-5975.

Sooner and later, schools to have library policies

WALNUT — School board members assemble fifteen minutes earlier, but a day later, than normal when they gather Tuesday night for their first session in more than a month.

Due to a Labor Day holiday Monday evening, the panel will meet on the next day in the multi-purpose room of Walnut High School. The session will open at 7:15 p.m. instead of the normal 7:30 p.m. to allow for a slightly larger-than usual agenda.

Topping that agenda is a new policy establishing "media centers" for each school in the district. The action does not actually set a timetable for building the centers—an expanded kind of library—but only sets a policy to guide future district decisions.

There's room for controversy in the matter, because the district will also review a policy about what kind of materials should be placed in the libraries, and how citizens may object if they find the materials objectionable for any reason.

In general, all materials placed in the media centers will be reviewed by staff members, and their importance, literary or artistic value, and enduring qualities judged. There will be no limit placed on selections because of political, moral, or religious belief of the author or producer of the materials.

Furthermore, the district's proposed policy states, "Serious materials which present an honest picture of some problem or aspect of life are not necessarily excluded because of coarse language or frankness."

Should a decision to accept some book, film, print, or other item for the media centers provoke opposition, the proposed policy allows for a review procedure that involves the district administration as well as the school's staff. Ultimately, the appeal process ends with the district superintendent, in the terms of the proposal."

Of the several other items on the agenda, most are routine business items, including approval of conference attendance by district employes, acceptance of gifts, and review of expenditures for the past month.

Classes slated in wig styling, speed writing

INDUSTRY — Courses in wig styling and speed writing will be offered by the La Puente Valley Adult School beginning in September.

The wig and hair-piece styling classes will start Sept. 11, at the school's Valley Vocational Center, 15359 E. Proctor Ave.

They will be held from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and from 1 to 5 and 6 to 10 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Cosmetology classes will be held daily from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Both courses prepare students for state license examinations.

The speed writing course, called Stenoscript ABC Shorthand, will start Sept. 13 and meet each Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. in the center.

The adult school may be reached by calling 213-968-4638.

Proposals will be sought for franchise

Rubbish collection issue settled in Walnut

By LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — City councilmen this week settled an impasse over the philosophy of rubbish collection and set the stage for requesting proposals for a refuse franchise here.

Mayor Richard Laughter and Councilman William Cotten, sitting as a committee to draw up plans for filling the newly created franchise, asked council guidance on the issue at the conclusion of an adjourned meeting Thursday evening.

It was a division over the financial terms of the franchise contract that had slowed the committee's work. The question was whether the city should allow rates to remain much as they are and receive some rate of return on the contract, or require at-cost service to cut collection rates in the community and not add to city revenues.

The question had to be settled so the council could develop terms of the contract and decide how to ask for proposals on the franchise. Ultimately the council directed its committee to draw up a letter defining terms of service and financial arrangements to send out to a selected group of rubbish companies. The letter will be reviewed at the council's next meeting.

Amid repeated motions from Councilman Joe Dyer to "open it up for bids," the council discussed how to shape the contract to insure quality refuse service at a reasonable price. Laughter supported a contract which would include a payment to the city from the collection service, while Cotten felt that to do so would make the city depending upon the contractor.

"The city should not derive any funds from this contract," said Cotten, "because what happens if we get poor performance and the money has already been spent?" He stated it would be easier to terminate the contract if there was no pressure to retain income from it.

Councilman Richard Lovemark agreed with Cotten's view, noting that Laughter was proposing, in effect, higher taxes for the city. He declared that the community should receive the benefit of lower costs from the exclusive service contract.

Laughter agreed to a compromise with Cotten, in which the rates for service will not be pared but quality of services will be increased. Cotten noted that the public would essentially be getting a lower rate for the collection service if the hauler would agree to take "all things," including such items as refrigerators and couches.

Also, the city will give preference to licensed refuse haulers now serving the community, the council decided. Selected firms will be sent the letter seeking a proposal, and the final contract will be negotiated after screening replies.

At the Bowl

Singer to sub for ailing mezzo

HOLLYWOOD — Mezzo-soprano Christina Krooskos will replace Joanna Simon, who is ill, in Bach's "The Passion According to St. John" at Hollywood Bowl Tuesday night. Miss Krooskos, well-known to Los Angeles audiences, was a featured soloist in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony at the bowl's opening night concert in July.

Additional soloists are soprano Susan Belling, tenors Roger Patterson and Michael Sells, the latter as the Evangelist, baritone Douglas Lawrence as Jesus, bass James Morris, and bass-baritone Arthur Edwards as Pilate.

This will be the first performance of the Bach "St. John Passion" by the Los Angeles Philharmonic. Lukas Foss will conduct a Baroque sized Philharmonic of approximately 40 musicians, plus the Roger Wagner Chorale.

Girl is four months pregnant; now what?

By JEAN ADAMS

FOUR MONTHS: (Q.) I am pregnant — four months. I haven't told my parents. They will kill me. I have been wearing smocks and loose blouses but I am afraid I can't fake it much longer.

I don't have money for an abortion. It was a 23-year-old guy. I haven't seen him since I told him. There aren't any free clinics in my town.

I need your help badly. — 14 in Maryland.

(A.) It is later now than when you wrote. You urgently need a doctor's attention. Tell your parents now — today. They will not kill you.

Instead, they will help you, not only with the things that need to be done immediately, but with decisions and procedures over the long range. Ask them to help you. They are the ones.

I hope any girl in your plight who may read this will go to her parents now. No girl should wait once she knows for sure.

BOY FRIEND: (Q.) I am 17 and a boy. Last summer I met this other boy. He is 18 now. We quickly became very involved.

He went off to college last September. We constantly exchanged letters telling about how much we missed each other. He is home now for the summer and we are deeply in love.

I feel that I should talk to my parents about him, but I am not sure they would understand. I don't see anything wrong with it. Do you? —Loved in Louisiana.

(A.) If you had had no doubts, you would not have written me. Yes, talk to your parents. Ask them to try to understand and ask them to help you understand better about yourself, now and in the future.

They—and you —may agree with my opinion that professional counseling would be a good place to start.

Trials along the trails

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Beware of friends who invite you to visit them "at our little cabin in the mountains." The cabin may be little, but a mountain is a mountain.

In the giddiness of a warm encounter, abetted by several potent nerve restorers, I recently agreed to clamber up to the mountain retreat of my (erstwhile) friends, an aerie so lofty it looks down on circling bald-eagles, a threatened species — as are the unwary guests who agree to visit someone's "little cabin in the mountains."

"Cinch to get to," said my (former) buddy, airily. "Drive part way up the mountain, park your car and head on up the trial. It's a half-mile or so."

The half-mile was a breeze. The "or so" nearly killed me. After climbing that steep, tortuous mountain trail for an hour "or so," I felt like Peak-Haunting Peveril or Hillary of the Himalayas. My wife, wheezing along behind me, looked more like a Sherpa guide with each step.

The first part of the climb was sort of invigorating. You admired the smog-free air and blue sky; you drank in the fragrance of pine needles in the warm sun; you listened with childish delight to the gurgle and bloop of the mountain stream. Back to nature. This was the life!

But soon you were perspiring freely, panting heavily. The air seemed to grow thinner, and you needed more gulps to fill your rasping lungs. Thighs were growing tight; legs twanging like rubber bands. And at every turn in the trail I saw not my (ex-) chum's cabin, but another quarter-mile of rocky pathway mounting steadily upward. ("Trail" comes from the Old English, traeglian, "to tear off, drag." It was a drag, all right.)

The pathway grew so steep I began to think of roping myself to my wife, in case I should fall. I wondered if the search party, presumably by now being organized, would find us before nightfall.

Eventually, just as I was considering setting up a base camp, we arrived at the cabin. We were dirty, dripping and exhausted. My (one-time) bosom companion came bounding out to greet us.

"What took you so long?" he demanded jovially, propping me against a tree. "Stiff bit of trail, but you have to admit it's worth it."

He was wrong.

BRIDGE

A crafty bit of unblocking

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We are indebted to the Encyclopedia of Bridge for today's hand. South would be better off in three no-trump where he has nine top tricks, but he lands in four hearts.

West opens the queen of clubs. East puts on his ace and returns the jack. West ruffs South's king and leads back a trump to South's jack. South cashes a second high trump and East shows out.

It looks as if South has to lose two club tricks, but that is a mirage. South can bring home the contract by means of a most unusual and interesting unblocking play.

He starts by playing a hird trump. Then he cashes the aces of diamonds and spades. The jack of spades is now led and overtaken by dummy's queen.

The queen of diamonds is led from dummy and after East follows low South discards his good king of spades.

West wins with the king of diamonds and is a dead duck. He has to lead a spade or a diamond. Either one allows South to discard his two losing clubs on the 10 of spades and jack of diamonds.

Kidnap-rape suspect arraigned

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) An ex-convict with a criminal record dating back 33 years was arraigned Wednesday and charged with the kidnap-rape of Tracy Greenfield, 11, and the attempted rape of his four stepdaughters.

Robert Reynolds, 49, alias Robert Lee Ray, was ordered to appear for preliminary hearing Oct. 11, and was being held in lieu of $125,000 bond.

The district attorney's office said Reynolds whose police record dates back to 1940 with some 30 charges including armed robbery, kidnaping, auto theft, forgery and indecent exposure, was charged on 17 counts.

Five counts involved the abduction of Tracy, who was drugged, raped and beaten, then left for dead behind a doughnut shop near Culver City last week.

She was released from UCLA Medical Center Tuesday, six days after she was kidnaped from a San Fernando Valley shopping center.

Twelve counts of attempted rape, child molestation and furnishing drugs to a minor were filed against Reynolds involving his four stepdaughters, ages 13, 16, 17 and 18.

He was arrested Sunday night at his home in Canoga Park after a massive hunt by police.

A probation report on Reynolds was drawn up in 1968 in San Diego County. It described him as "dangerous to the community" and said his behavior was irresponsible, impulsive and immature and that he "derives satisfaction from antisocial acts."

Judge Richard Amerian denied a defense motion for a change of venue and also refused to issue a publicity "gag order" on the legal proceedings.

Choose shade trees carefully

Infinitely varied in type, description and function, shade trees provide a multitude of benefits in the home garden, community, and environment.

Decuduous or evergreen, fruit-bearing, flowering, upright or oval, large or small — all with different characteristics — are able to complement their surroundings, radiate beauty, and enhance the quality of the environment, without interfering with one another.

Environmentalists are quick to point out trees are essential for improving the quality of the air we breathe; community action leaders urge the planting of more trees to enhance the beauty of downtown areas, neighborhoods, and the city. Landscape designers are further interested in form, growth habits, textures and in relationship of trees to the overall scheme of things. Homeowners cherish shade trees for their beauty and cooling effects. Tht California Association of Nurserymen concedes trees are essential for a better environement, and that they will many needs and desires — in home gardens and in the community. Even so, it should be obvious that while there is a need for more trees, indiscriminate planting is not an answer. If expected results are to be desired, it's mandatory to plant the right tree in the right place.

A fruitless mulberry, with a spread of over 40 feet, can be relied upon for shade — out in the yard — but isn't meant to be planted adjacent to the house. A modest-growing Purple Leaf Plum is one choice to consider for planting closer-in, for handsome accent and shade. Your nurseryman offers the trees best suited for local conditions. He can recommend varieties for specific situations — throughout the landscape.

A large selection of varieties is available in nursery containers for planting right now. There are such standbys as alders, camphor trees, carob and zelkovas, for sure, but plantsmen have developed improved strains, or hybrids, of ash, elm and magnolias. These are worth shopping for, as each boasts a unique characteristic that has a stamp of "something special" on it. This reflects itself, and stands out in the garden.

Special landscape effects are created by the locusts and ginkgo trees, whose foliages are extraordinary brilliant; the clumps of white birch, with chalk-colored trunks and slender, upright growth.

In hot climes, crape myrtles create a summerlong carnival of color — in shades of pink, red, white, lavender and purple.

Hybrid liquidamber trees produce pleasing fall color; the foliages turn crimson. red and burgundy — as well as other autumnal hues of yellow, gold and bronze. Palo Alto, afterglow and burgundy are three hybrids of the time-honored tall, upright growing liquidambar, called sweet gum. Chinese pistache and pepperidge tree (nyssa) are also famous for the foliage show of color they produce in fall months.

Coral tree, Hong Kong orchid tree, Brazilian pepper, and certain members of the ficus family are favorites in frostfree areas. Which infers that in the many climates of the Golden State there are varieties of trees that may not be widely planted in other regions of the state.

The best approach is to discuss your tree needs with your nurseryman, and from the big list of possibilities for each situation, select those which please you most. You'll be amazed at the number of varieties.

Tropical plants get extra-special care

California is in no sense a tropical setting, though climate-wise, many parts of the Golden State are classified as sub-tropics. There are many tropical plants which thrive in the state, however, and homeowners can use them to create a touch of the tropics in their gardens.

Tropical effects are especially desireable for close-in areas — lanais or patios where outdoor living is enhanced by the lush foliage, and for shaded areas where few plants other than tropicals seem to thrive.

A most popular tropical plant is the so-called split leaf philodendron, a handsome sight in partial sun or shaded garden locations. Most nurseries offer it, and newer hybrid forms with unique characteristics. In climes where they thrive, the number of different varieties will delight you.

Glossy-leaf aralia is another popular shrub for tropical effects. It features extra large green leaves. The aralia may be scorched in the hot interior valleys if planted in a sunny location. Too, lots of sun can lighten the leaf color and reduce the tropical appearance of the plant. Give it full or partial shade.

In mild climes, sheffleria, tupidanthus, ferns and certain palms help create a touch of the tropics in the garden. Most can be featured in tubs, or distinctive containers, as well as being lovely landscape fixtures. Being portable, the container plants can be moved into protected spots when cold or frost is a threat.

Thelow, spreading acanthus has rich, dark green foliage that compliments tropical plantings. Aucuba is an upright, modest grower. There is a green variety as well as the spreckled types from which comes the popular gold dust plant.

Bright bougainvillea, fragrant gardenias and free-flowering hibiscus are sources of floral beauty in a tropical paradise. Lantana, a continuous bloomer, and hibiscus — both frost-tender — are being treated more and more as annuals by gardeners where winter temperatures are severe, reports the California Assocation of Nurserymen. The display of color, throughout the warm months of the year, justifies their selection and use in this manner.

Delicate and durable

An extra touch with green ferns

The lush greenery of ferns gives a picture of refinement and delicacy, yet for all this they have an air of ruggedness of a granite-lined streambed, or the backwoods beauty of a shaded glen. Local nurseries have a host of varieties available, so that it is possible for individuals to capture this grace and woodland beauty in the home garden, and enjoy the natural beauty of ferns indoors as well.

In the garden, ferns can be featured in shaded places where they can hold their own with azaleas, camellias, fuchsias and other shade-loving beauties. Taller woodwardias, lady fern and mother fern are a few to consider. They are lovely among trees and shrubs — and as light, airy additions to foundation plantings.

Lower-growing sword fern and holly fern are a durable pair. Borders take on a new look with the presence of these decorative choices. Holly fern has dark green fronds with holly-like leaflets.

Selected ferns also show off nicely in containers, suggests the California Association of Nurserymen. Tree ferns are a case in point. Their aristocratic beauty is showcased beautifully in tubs or containers. They add dramatic beauty besides a garden pool or a rock garden — provided the location isn't a sun-baked hillside. In coastal gardens, ferns will take a fair amount of sun. Best bet is to check with your nurseryman.

There are many asparagus ferns which gardeners would do well to investigate. Sprenger's fern is used as a shrub or ground cover and makes a beautiful hanging basket plant. Asparagus meyeri is relatively new and already in great demand. The semi-rigid and arching fronds are uniquely shaped. In the garden, in a pot, or as a hanging basket.

Indoors, there are large specimens available for immediate decorative effect. Small sizes for individual display, or for grouping with other foliage plants, are fun to shop for. Maidenchair fern, fluffy ruffles and bird's nest fern form a terrific trio to tempt shoppers.

Break tradition -- plant some bulbs

It's time to plant bulbs. This isn't to suggest that you hurry to the nursery to select the traditional Fall bulbs.

Daffodils, tulips, hyacinths, and the like, will be available in a few weeks, but be advised, and aware, that there are some source of outstanding color available from certain bulbs. And, these bulbs should be planted right away, advises the California Association of Nurserymen.

Some of the bulbs for early planting have a short period of dormancy, so planting should take place before the customary fall planting season. Most prominent among these are the bearded iris, whose bulbs are properly called rhizomes. It is among the showiest of the large tribe of iris, available in a wide range of colors and cherished as both a garden and a cutflower.

Spider lily bulbs are available for immediate planting. The individual blooms are exquisite — you can enjoy flowers in red, pink and yellow. The amaryllis-like bulb produces blooms almost immediately, after planting.

As curious as it is beautiful is colchicum. Its popular name is summer crocus because of the shape of its lavender blue flowers, which arise before the foliage appears. More unique is the fact that the bulbs will bloom indoors without soil or water. Merely place the bulbs in the home where there is a good deal of available light; watch the large flowers pop into bloom — in a very short time. A fun project for the youngsters is to "grow" colchicum indoors — and in the garden.

Star of Bethlehem (ornitholgalum) and snowflake (leucojum), two time honored performers, are available for planting this month, as are bulbs of sparaxis. The 2-inch sparaxis blooms are distinguished by bright yellow throats and a three-cornered black spot near the base of each petal. Hybrids produce color in shades of red, yellow, blue, purple, mauve, white and pastel shades, as well.

Gardener's checklist

1. Freesias are one spring-flowering bulb that definitely likes early planting. Nurseries will have bulbs available this month in a pleasing variety of colors.
2. Feed and soak established lawns. Now is the time to prepare seedbeds for new lawns.
3. For a delightful decoration on the porch or patio, plant cactus and succulents in individual red clay pots, or Mexican pottery, and display them for up-close enjoyment.
4. For bright color and soft fragrance in the garden, plant winter sweet peas now.
5. Keep summer annuals blooming by keeping them well watered and removing faded flowers.

Dramatic rooms possible even on limited budgets

After a grocery shopping expedition, it doesn't seem as though there's much of the household budget left over to do anything about the house—at least for most of us. All is not as bleak as it seems, however. It's possible to live well and eat satisfactorily, too.

The trick is to know how to do it! One of the solutions to this problem is the larger selection of good-looking modestly priced furnishings being shown in stores now. The day of having to spend a fortune to furnish a home nicely is over. Today, more and more manufacturers have gotten the message that there are plenty of people with taste who aren't in mansions.

Being a smart shopper is always part of the secret of making your money buy more. Don't just settle for what's immediately available. Look around. Comparison shop. Ask questions, particularly about quality. For example, such great things have been done with man-made materials that furniture with plastics are equal to and often superior to more costly wood pieces.

Frequently, you can't even tell the difference by sight of feel, the furniture finishes reproduce the look and texture of wood or leather graining so perfectly — and the cost is considerably less.

Rosemary Garman wed in St. Joseph Church

Marriage vows were exchanged between Miss Rosemary Garman of Walnut and Edward Donald Greer, Valinda at an afternoon ceremony at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

The Rev. Douglas Ralston read the service.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Garman of Pomona, chose a candlelight gown of French chantilly lace fashioned on empire lines with full cuffed sleeves and a chapel-length train. Her three-tier silk illusion veil was held by a pearled Juliet cap and she carried a cascade of white carnations, pink roses and baby's breath with an orchid in the center. The bride was escorted by her father.

Miss Pamela Gay Carrithers was maid of honor. The flower girl was Sandra Riddell and ring bearer was Mark Timothy Hayes.

Michael Alan Weddle was best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jones Greer of Painesville, Ohio. Ushers were Lawrence Garman Jr., and Michael Riddell.

A garden reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The couple honeymooned at Lake Tahoe and in northern California and the newlyweds are now at home in Valinda.

Vacationer notes

Noise is out of hand

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) —From a vacationer's notebook:

The noise level in this nation is out of hand. The scientific community has warned repeatedly of the long range damage of noise pollution to our physical and mental health.

We're not listening!

Even one brief motor trip proves that noise no longer is a hazard to the big city dwellers alone.

We urbanites abide, somehow, the jabbering of the triphammer, the din of the drill, the grind of the cement mixers, the blare of horns, the endless heavy traffic.

Our ears ache from transistor radios on buses and the kids who own the sets playing them without one thought for others.

We enact legislation ordering "Quiet, please.' A president in his second inaugural address pleads that we lower our voices.

And the noise goes on!

So you think, and hope, that venturing back to small town and rural America means you'll find that the country is peaceful as the songwriter said. Alas, too often, it is not.

I'm convinced this nation is afraid of quiet...noise seems to be its total comfort and security, its Linus with his blanket.

Stop in at a favorite restaurant in a little town in the eastern Panhandle of West Virginia for a usually quiet, delicious meal. Boom! Some young people at the next table feed coins into the jukebox and the rock beat drowns any further appetite. The biggest desire: to escape the scene.

Check into a so-called luxury motel and decide on dinner at its highly touted rooftop restaurant. About the time for the entree, and a rock band comes on the tiny stage. And boom! Amplification is the next course.

Now, I'm not anti-rock, but this beat has its place and it's not in a sophisticated, candlelit dining room where conversation then becomes impossible.

The traveler never seems to escape the noise either of the transistor radio or the television set. Walls of too many lodging places are too thin to disguise either.

Once we found the type of quiet we remembered from other days...in a state park's lodge where the only sound we heard all night was of gentle rain falling onto the foliage outside our window.

We were traveling with a teen-age niece, taking her home for a spell with family before she enrolled in her final undergrad college year. She was back from a summer study-vacation program in Europe.

"Boy," she said, "this place is so swinging you can hear a pin drop in the lounge."

She paused and added, "You know, I like it this way."

So there's hope. Hope from the young especially. Maybe they will help with the war on noise pollution as they have on other pollutants, to turn around the many forces that would seek to destroy our heritage.

4-Channel Sound and Big Savings

Harman-Kardon's 75+ is an ideal way to start your first four-channel system. It delivers 18 watts (RMS) per channel in the quadraphonic mode and a rear panel switch 'bridges' the amplifier sections to deliver better than twice as much power in stereo. The 75+ will handle every quadraphonic source presently available, and of course the tuner section gives excellent performance in either mode. Front panel convenience features provide maximum versatility; included are an SQ matrix switch, dual balance and volume controls and a joy stick control for perfect sound balance. $439.95 is really a most reasonable price for this 4-channel receiver. The walnut case is extra.

The Garrard 40B is a totally reliable automatic record player with a gentle record changing action and damped cueing to help you keep your discs in mint condition. Our $49.95 price includes a base and an Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge.

A front panel mounted headphone jack gives easy access for private listening. The present price is a moderate $88.88 for this fine deck.

Start with Sansui and Save

Here's a great way to get started in components without blowing your whole budget. You don't pay for a lot of showcase features on the Sansui 210 because the design emphasis is strictly on those important basics: 20 watts (RMS) of low distortion power, a tuner section which does a good job on all FM broadcasts and the convenience features you really use, like a headphone jack, a loudness contour, and a tape monitor. The price for all this is $149.95, making the 210 an awfully economical way to get your system off to a good start.

Speed takes low profile in 500 practice

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Final preparations for Sunday's fourth California 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway were completed in an uneventful seven hours Thursday.

The last day of practice before the race was appropriately labeled "pre-race test day" instead of the traditional carburetion test day.

And so 32 of the 33 drivers who will be on the track Sunday morning took advantage of the precious time by putting in a few laps under a full load of fuel.

The only car which didn't make out, even though it did make it into the pits, was the No. 35 Norris Industries Eagle driven by former Cal 500 winner Jim McElreath.

The first five hours were devoted to just practice, with only two yellow lights appearing.

The final two were set aside for the pit crews to practice on pit stops — something they'll need to work on since each car will have to make at least 10 pit stops this year during the race.

Only seven drivers climbed over the 190-mile an hour mark for the day, with Mike Mosley in the No. 98 Lodestar Eagle heading the list with a speed of 192.

Other drivers topping 190 included Bobby Unser, 191.734, in his Olsonite Eagle, Lee Kunzman, 191.443, in an Eagle-Offy, Jimmy Caruthers, 191.164, in an Eagle, "Twin-100" champion Johnny Rutherford, 191.123, in his Gulf McLaren, Mario Andretti, 190.759, in a Parnelli, and Sunday's pole-siter Peter Revson, 190.718. in the other Gulf entry.

A total of 16 cars were able to run over 185 miles an hour, making it apparent that endurance instead of speed will be stressed this year for the race.

The past history of the California 500 proved that the "hot dogs" can't finish the race.

With the heat expected to be in the 90's on race day, the car mechanics toned down the cars in hopes of making the distance.

A few of the drivers Thursday did run into some complications, and a few more tested new engines.

The ones who developed problems during the day included the defending Cal 500 champion Roger McCluskey and Tom Bigelow.

But hopefully the rough spots will be ironed out by race day.

Peter Revson, the pole sitter for this year's race at a qualifying speed of 200.089 miles an hour, was one of the drivers who tried out a new engine Thursday.

But he made it out onto the track in the late afternoon and put in a few laps in the 180's.

If anything should happen to any of the cars before the race, and one or two of them don't make it to the starting line, two alternates will be standing by.

One of them is David Hobbs, the hard-luck guy this year at Ontario. Hobbs was scheduled to qualify last Friday instead of Saturday because he had committments to qualify for a Can-Am race in Elkhart Lake, Wisc. on Saturday.

But he blew an engine Friday and had to try to qualify Saturday, which meant if he did qualify good enough that he didn't have to race in the Twin 100's on Sunday, then he would start at the end of the field in the Can-Am Sunday.

But as it turned out, in order to make the Cal 500 field he had to race in the qualifying races due to a slow qualifying speed.

Then he had to make the decision to give up one of the races — Elkhart Lake or Ontario. He chose to stick with OMS.

But that Sunday he blew a tire in the qualifying race and couldn't get back on the track to finish well enough to make the field. He was listed as the 34th driver.

The other alternate is Bill Simpson.

All the drivers will be together for one more time before the race. That will be Saturday morning at 11 a.m. in Victory Circle for the drivers meeting.

Then it'll only be a matter of hours when the green flag drops and the fourth Cal 500 will be underway.

READY TO RUN

A. J. Foyt sits and waits for his turn on the track during carburetion tests Thursday for the Cal 500. Foyt builds both the chassis and engine for the car, No. 14, he calls the Coyote-Foyt.

Mal Eaton, head football coach at Mt. San Antonio College, is considering placing his quarterback under lock and key. If not that, he intends to hire a phalanx of body guards. Maybe both.

Eaton's reasoning is understandable. The quarterback is Steve Myer, the nation's leading community college passer in 1972. He went through the entire season without so much as a hangnail, while completing better than 54 per cent of his passes, leading the Mounties to their first non-losing season in five years and generally giving the MSAC coaching staff reason for great optimism in 1973.

Until a few weeks ago Eaton and his staff couldn't have been happier. But then they got the report that Myer had been in an automobile accident.

He was returning from the beach, a passenger in a vehicle which was hit broadside. His throwing arm was dangling, exposed through the open window when the collision occurred, turning the vehicle over, and pinning his arm between pavement and the side of the car as it skidded along the asphalt.

The injuries could have been much worse. The diagnosis was severe abrasions and third degree burns. But the arm was intact and there were no broken bones.

★ ★ ★

But third degree burns kill skin tissue and it was expected that skin grafts would be necessary to restore the arm. Throwing footballs wasn't expected to be part of the therapy.

The quarterback thought otherwise. He wasn't about to let a scraped-up arm rob him of his final season of junior college football.

As the arm healed Myer joined the coaches and other valley players in MSAC's summer passing league. It wasn't long before he replaced his replacement, receivers coach Ron Copeland, who filled in for Myer on his assigned team.

"We were supposed to take turns throwing," Copeland related. "But pretty soon he wouldn't even let me back in there to take my turn. He wanted to stay in there and throw the ball."

Since then, Myer has been able to take part in summer conditioning drills and will be one of 75 Mountie hopefuls who take the field Saturday morning for the first workout in pads.

"It looks like he's going to be just fine," smiled offensive line coach Ralph Craig this week. "His arm is scarred, but he's able to throw."

It may have been the reason Eaton said, "we're 50 times ahead of last year at this point." And practice hasn't even begun yet.

★ ★ ★

The Mounties will have a new, mod look this year. Eaton is sporting a summer-grown mustache and his players will be allowed to wear brushes if they choose, along with longer hairstyles. Locks protruding from helmets is a no-no, however.

This is a departure from other years, when Eaton-coached teams often wore crew cuts, if not shaved heads.

Eaton left it to the players. Only three voted for crew cuts. Three more said anything should go and the majority favored a moderate approach to grooming.

Besides the new look, there will be a lot of new faces on this year's team—and fewer of them. While more than 100 candidates showed up a year ago for the first contact session, only 75 will be in attendance the first day this year. Many couldn't stand the pace during the summer conditioning program and others dropped out for personal reasons. One of these, wide receiver Don Moore, elected to concentrate on track and field. He was the No. 2 receiver on last year's team with 36 catches for 700 yards and seven touchdowns.

If, as Eaton says, the Mounties are far ahead of last year, it's a good thing. They have less than a week to prepare for a scrimmage against visiting Cypress College next Thursday. Rugged El Camino will is scheduled to visit Saturday, Sept. 8 for a final scrimmage before the ones that count.

The Mounties open the season at Citrus College Sept. 15.

Rams seek triumph over ex-mates

LOS ANGELES — The Ram horns have turned into lightning bolts and vice versa. It's kind of like the Hatfields and the McCoys after an intermarriage.

That's the stage for tonight's (8:30) Coliseum squabble between the Rams and the San Diego Chargers for preseason pro football supremacy in Southern California.

To say there is a little extra incentive in this one is to understate.

No less than five ex-Rams populate the Charger roster, and four of them will be starters. No less than one very important ex-Charger is on the Rams roster, and he (quarterback John Hadl) will start.

A crowd of more than 50,000 will watch the proceedings as the Rams search for their first win of the preseason after three losses and a tie against opponents who participated in last year's NFL playoffs. The most recent setback, however, was encouraging because of the manner in which coach Chuck Knox's team bounced back from 17-0 deficit at halftime to scare World Champion Miami, before losing, 17-14.

Reserve quarterback James Harris was the hero of that one, throwing touchdown passes to Larence McCutcheon and Harold Jackson, and Harris, no doubt, will get a chance to show off against the 1-3 Chargers, who won last week over Philadelphia.

But it's Hadl's night, and Knox is hoping to sharpen his number one quarterback for the league season which begins for the Rams in Kansas City on Sept. 16.

Hadl, who has become the sixth most productive passer of all-time while pitching for nearly 27,000 yards in 11 years with San Diego, came to the Rams in an off-season trade which sent defensive lineman Coy Bacon and running back Bobby Thomas to the Chargers.

Both Bacon and Thomas will be in the San Diego starting group that also includes former Rams great defensive end Deacon Jones and strong safety Ron Smith. Another ex-Ram on the Charger roster is defensive tackle Greg Wojcik.

And to carry the theme a step further, the Charger head coach is Harland Svare, who was head coach in Los Angeles from 1962 through 1965.

In his current assignment, Svare is rebuilding the Chargers on both offense and defense. His most notable change was sending Hadl to the Rams and acquiring Johnny Unitas from Baltimore. Known as Mr. Quarterback, Unitas played with the Colts for 17 years under current Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom.

Unitas, who Svare indicated will go most of the way Friday night, has completed 17 of 29 for 218 yards, 1 TD, 1 PI in the pre-season. His pass receivers are Gary Garrison, Dave Williams, tight end Pettis Norman and running backs Mike Garrett and Thomas.

Thomas, starting in place of the injured Cid Edwards (bruised heel) is the leading charger rusher with 36 carries for144 yards and a 4.0 average.

On defense for San Diego, the ex-Rams, Jones and Bacon, line up side by side at left end and left tackle. The other half of the front four provides added strength in the persons of ex-Bronco Dave Costa and ex-Packer Lionel Aldridge. It's a line the Rams will try to run at with the likes of Jim Bertelsen (32 for 132, 4.2 avg.), Larry Smith (18 for 68, 3.8 avg.) and McCutcheon (27 for 125, 4.6 avg.).

But it's the Rams passing attack which has produced the points thus far. Hadl and Harris have thrown five touchdown passes, two of them to Jackson, one to McCutcheon, one to Jack Snow and one to Joe Sweet.

Although three Rams stars missed last week's game in Miami because of nagging injuries, all are expected to be healthy for the Charger contest. Guard Tom Mack (shoulder), defensive tackle Merlin Olsen (knee) and linebacker Isiah Robertson (elbow) have worked out with the squad this week and should be ready.

Knox has indicated one cange in his secondary where he will start rookie Eddie McMillan of Florida State at right corner. McMillan, who turned in a key interception last week, did not play the week before at Oakland because of a sprained toe. He is listed ahead of veterans Gene Howard and Jimmy Nettles on the Rams depth chart.

The Chargers and Rams began this pre-season series for the Lt. Governor's Trophy back in 1967. Since that time the two rivals are 3-3 with the Chargers winning last year, 14-13.

McMullen's RBI sparks Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—When Ken McMullen stepped up to the plate against hard-throwing Ken Forsch in the eighth inning Thursday night, he remembered some words of wisdom from Hall of Famer Ted Williams.

"Ted always thought you should take the first pitch ... look for the pitcher's best pitch ... if you're fooled don't swing," the little-used Los Angeles Dodgers' third baseman said.

"Forsch blew the ball by me the first couple of times but I shortened up my swing and made contact."

McMullen provided the game-winning hit for the sixth time this season, a single that gave the Dodgers a 6-5 come-from-behind victory over the Houston Astros.

McMullen singled in pinchrunner Jerry Royster from second base. Royster was running for Ron Cey, who walked and was sacrificed to second.

McMullen played for Williams in Washington in 1969 and briefly in 1970 and the former Boston Red Sox great left a lasting impresson.

"Ted helped me quite a bit as a hitter," he said. "At the time I played for him, I didn't take all of his advice but he's been right in so many ways."

McMullen is playing this season despite enormous personal problems. His 29-year-old wife, Bobbie, who is expecting the couple's third child in December, has a malignancy in her lymph glands. One of her breasts has been removed and she faces radiation treatments after the child is delivered.

The Dodgers offset two-run homers by Bob Watson and Cesar Cedeno with three RBIs by catcher Joe Ferguson, including a game-tying single in the seventh.

It may have been a costly win. Dodger centerfielder Willie Davis suffered a sprained left knee ligament and had to leave the game in the fifth inning. His knee was packed in ice and taped.

Right-hander Don Sutton, the ace of the staff at 16-8, will miss a scheduled turn tonight because of shoulder problems. Instead, Alston will give rookie Doug Rau, 4-1, his second start of the year against Tom Griffin, 0-5.

Metcalf defeats Harris, 5-7, 6-1, 6-4

Cruz, Zorn pep Poly offense in third scrimmage session

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The offense took a slight advantage over the defense in Cal Poly's third scrimmage of the young football season Thursday afternoon at Kellogg Field.

The offense took command in the early going as halfback Greg Cruz broke for a long touchdown run on the very first play from scrimmage. Minutes later, quarterback Jim Zorn skirted left end on a keeper for the only other TD jaunt of the afternoon.

Cruz, the 5-10, 187-pound senior, led the Broncs in rushing last year with 625 yards in 152 carries for a 4.1 yard average per play. The 1972 Rio Hondo JC transfer toted the ball for six TD's last year second only to the now departed Steve Barron who scored eight times.

Zorn is the 6-0, 200-pound junior signal-caller from Cerritos JC, who has shown a fine talent for running with the ball. The southpaw graduated from Gahr High School.

"They looked real good today in the early part of the scrimmage," said head coach Roy Anderson. "But they began looking tired from the midway point on."

Three freshmen from the defensive secondary caught the eye of the Bronco skipper. They are Lonnie Mahi and Al Wong from Hawaii and cornerback Rod Hiatt, the first year man from El Rancho High. It marks the second straight day that Hiatt has received praise.

"We have a tremendous crop of freshman talent and those boys (mentioned above) are some of the best ones. They have all the potential of being outstanding. Hiatt continues to look impressive despite minor injuries to both legs.

In the three scrims held so far the offense appears to be farther along than the defense.

"From tackle-to-tackle the offensive line has enough size, they're not big but they're adequate, to do a good job for us this year," added Anderson. "The defense is continuing to improve but due to a lot of changes in player positioning they have and will take a litle longer to jell. By the fourth game they should be familiar enough with each other's moves to look like a coordinated unit."

The Broncs will hold their fourth scrum tomorrow morning at 10 a.m. and proceed in game-playing conditions with officials.

Foreman, Roman tangle in Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI) — Undefeated George Foreman was heavily favored today to stop challenger Joe King Roman of Puerto Rico Saturday in the first defense of his world heavyweight crown.

The fight, the first world heavyweight championship match to be held in Japan, is scheduled to start at 12:30 p.m. at the 15,000 capacity Nihon Budokan Hall. That hour was selected so that it can be shown in closed circuit television starting at 11:30 p.m. (EDT) Friday night in the United States and Canada.

Foreman, who knocked down Joe Frazier six times before referee Arthur Mercante stopped the title fight in the second round last January in Kingston, Jamaica, is considered much too strong for Roman.

Also, Roman, at 6-foot-1 and 190 pounds, expected to give away two inches and as much as 30 pounds, may keep out of Foreman's punches by running for a round or so but that Foreman is expected will nail him inside of five rounds.

Roman's manager, Bill Daly, has said that Roman is too fast for Foreman, that he will get the champion tired and frustrated by the seventh round and that Roman may stop Foreman in the 11th or 12th rounds.

"Roman will not be a standing target like Frazier was last January," Daly said.

Foreman has woorked hard since his arrival in Japan Aug. 15. He showed power in his punches and excellent footwork despite his huge size. He brought five sparring partners with him to indicate his determination to succeed in his first title defense.

"I have to win to keep my title and I am not underestimating Roman," Foreman says. "One punch can decide the outcome. I will be swinging with a left or right to knock him out if possible in the very first round."

Larry Frazier, a San Francisco heavyweight and one of Foreman's sparring partners, asked if the odds were 10-1 for Foreman in the United States and then said, "Foreman is much too strong for Roman. I think it will be over in three rounds, maybe the first if Foreman catches him."

What has impressed observers here is Roman's continued show of confidence that he will beat Foreman. He has appeared thoroughly relaxed. He finished his gym work on Wednesday and has been taking only a leisurely walk the past two days.

Jay Edson of Phoenix, Ariz., will be the referee.

Celebs tee it up in Cal 500 golf tourney

ONTARIO — Cochampions Max Baer and sportscaster Tom Kelly will try to separate one another from a share of the crown in the fourth annual California 500 Celebrity Golf Invitational, but watch out for James Garner.

If he can concentrate on the golf course (Jim's tournament chairman, parade chairman, pageant chairman and honorary head steward, Garner could be the man to beat. Once a 1-handicapper at Riviera, Garner recently had two subpar rounds over the tough Riv layout.

And he has precedent going for him. When Garner was tournament chairman in 1970, he won the championship.

The 18-hole shotgun tournament will be held at Ontario National Golf Club Saturday, the day before the California 500 race. Blastoff time is 1 p.m.

Parnelli Jones, president of Ontario Motor Speedway, will be defending his net championship. Ron (Tarzan) Ely, winner of this division in 1971 but absent last year because of film commitments in Europe, will attempt to dethrone Parnelli.

Other contestants include Efram Zimbalist Jr., Forrest Tucker, Buddy Rogers, Bill Sharman, Elgin Baylor, Dennis James, Bill Reynolds, Jack Narz, Badman Bob Wilke, Morey Amsterdam, Tim Herbert, Shug Fisher, John Agar, Billy Barty, Buddy Lester, Buddy Ebsen, Alvy Moore, Bill Holliday, Jim Davis, Claude Akins and Jack Garner, Jim's brother.

$1-million to fight the champ

NEW YORK (UPI) —Jerry Quarry, the world's fourth ranked heavyweight, was offered $1 million to fight the winner of tonight's title fight between champion George Foreman and Joe "King" Roman.

Barry Berntsein, president of Video Techniques, made the offer by wire to Quarry, who is in Las Vegas training for a fight with James J. Woody. Quarry's fight will preceed the Foreman-Roman clash in Tokyo on the closed-circuit telecast.

It was just another win for Cards

By United Press International

It was just another win for the St. Louis Cardinals but to the New York Mets, it was a heart breaking defeat.

The Cardinals eked out a 1-0 win in 10 innings over New York and Tom Seaver Thursday night, dashing the Mets' hopes for a "crucial" victory in the opening game of a fourgame set,

Seaver and Reggie Cleveland were engaged in a nip-and-tuck pitching duel after nine innings before Lou Brock doubled in the 10th. Brock took third on Ted Sizemore's sacrifice and scored the game's only run when Jose Cruz singled past the drawn-in Met infield.

Seaver had called the game "crucial, pivotal to our pennant hopes." Now 15-8, he struck out nine, raising his season total to 205 and reduced his league-leading ERA to 1.71. It also marked the sixth season in a row that the Mets' ace has struck out 200 or more.

The Mets' locker room was generally subdued after the loss which dropped them six games back of the pace-setting Cardinals in the Eastern Division. Nobody was particularly anxious to talk to reporters.

The Cardinals felt good about the win but weren't going to get carried away with the decisive victory. They chalked it up as just another game. Manager Red Schoendienst said, "winning every game is important. A game like this should pep you up but it's just another game." game."

"We scored seven runs in one inning down in Atlanta last week and they came back to beat us so a game like this is good for the morale." Asked about his team's chances for the title, the Cards' skipper nonchalantly turned the question aside by saying, "We play each game one at a time."

In the only other National League games, Philadelphia topped Montreal 8-7 and Los Angeles downed Houston 6-5.

In the American League, Cleveland turned back Detroit, 3-0, Milwaukee defeated Boston 4-1 and Minnesota beat Texas 5-2 in 11 innings.

Little-used Ken McMullen delivered a pinch-hit single to score the winning run in Los Angeles' win over Houston. The triumph was the 36th come-from-behind victory of the season for the Dodgers and upped their lead to four games in the NL West over idle Cincinnati.

Joe Ferguson drove in three runs for the Dodgers while Bob Watson and Cesar Cedeno smashed two run homers in the Astros' losing effort.

Greg Luzinski singled home two runs with a bases-loaded single with two out in the ninth inning after stroking a solo homer in the fifth inning to lift Philadelphia to a come-from behind victory over Montreal.

There were six homers in the game, three for each team. Bob Boone and Willie Montanez led the Phillies attack.

Hal Breeden rapped a pair of two-run homers to help knock out Philadelphia starter Steve Carlton in the fifth inning and Bob Bailey smashed his 23rd homer for the Expos.

Dolphins become television stars

By United Press International

The Miami Dolphins have become such television personalities that they may soon be forced to join the actors guild.

The Dolphins will perform tonight in the second of three successive national television appearances when they journey to Minnesota to take on the Vikings in a battle of unbeaten clubs.

Miami, which also played before a national audience against the College All-Stars and was featured in a late-night special recently, takes a 23-game unbeaten streak against the Vikings. The Dolphins have won four games and tied one while Minnesota has won all three of its exhibitions.

Miami is just getting back to health. Fullback Larry Csonka returned to action last week for the first time since the All-Star game and Mercury Morris made his first preseason start at running back.

Chuck Foreman, the Vikings' first draft pick, scored twice as Minnesota ripped Oakland 34-10 last week. Safety Jeff Wright also had a 15-yard TD run with an intercepted pass.

Miami's Bob Griese, appearing in mid-season form, completed 7-of-9 passes for 135 yards while the Vikings' Fran Tarkenton completed 12 for 200 yards.

In other action tonight, Buffalo is at Denver and San Diego at Los Angeles. On Saturday, the New York Giants face Philadelphia at Princeton, N.J., Baltimore is at Houston, Atlanta at Cincinnati, Detroit at Cleveland, Kansas City at Dallas, the New York Jets at New Orleans, San Francisco at Oakland, Pittsburgh at Green Bay and St. Louis at Chicago.

The Bills - Broncos game marks the first time Lou Saban has faced his former club since moving back to Buffalo last year. Star running back O.J. Simpson is expected to return to the Bills' lineup after missing two games with bruised ribs. Buffalo has yet to win in four starts while Denver is 1-2.

San Diego, which snapped a three-game losing streak last week by beating Philadelphia, will probably use John Unitas at quarterback quite a bit against the Rams, who have yet to win in four games, tying once. John Hadl, a Charger for 11 years, makes his first appearance against his old club.

In news from the camps Thursday, running back Emerson Boozer and offensive tackle Winston Hill agreed to terms with the New York Jets and have reported to camp. Hill, an All-Pro many times, and Boozer, the AFC leader in touchdowns last season, had been suspended for refusing to play pre-season games.

John North, the new coach at New Orleans, added two assistants, Dixie White for the offensive line and Bob Cummings for the defensive line. St. Louis acquired running back Willie Belton from Buffalo and Washington placed veteran quarterback Sam Wyche on the taxi squad.

Atlanta traded defensive lineman Louis Ross to San Diego and New Orleans picked up wide receiver Charlie Brown from Washington.

Billy admits he ordered greaseballs

DETROIT (UPI)—The pennant races may have dried up but the great greaseball controversy certainly hasn't.

Manager Billy Martin of the Detroit Tigers kept it juicy Thursday night when he admitted ordering two of his pitchers to throw illegal pitches in a 3-0 loss to the Cleveland Indians—a defeat which came on a sixhitter by confessed one-time greaseball artist Gaylord Perry.

Jim Merritt of Texas admitted throwing 25 or 30 greaseballs when he pitched against Perry last Sunday in Texas. His admission cost him a reported $250.

"If Cronin (Joe, president of the American League) fines me, I'll take him to court," Martin fumed after admitting he ordered Joe Coleman and Fred Scherman to throw greaseballs in the final two innings. "We threw spitters, obvious spitters. We did it on purpose. This thing has got to come to a head.

"I ordered them to do it after I went to the umpires and they didn't do anything about it," he nearly shouted. "I can't believe Jim Merritt got fined.

"Since when has a man been fined for being honest? We need more of it in this country."

At first Coleman, with a silly grin on his face that told you he wasn't telling the truth, denied throwing a greaseball. But Martin sauntered by on his way to the shower and said, "It's all right. I told them I ordered you to throw it."

"I rubbed it off my wrists before he came out to inspect me," said Coleman, subject of a search by Flaherty at the request of Manager Ken Aspromonte of Cleveland in the middle of the game. "We were just trying to show Perry up.

"It wasn't to give me an advantage," Coleman said. "It was done on purpose to show them what it's like to hit against one. He must have have thrown 50 or 60 of them.

"We know where he hides it," Coleman said. "We've had guys who caught him and played with him on our team Somebody's got to do something about it."

Before the eighth inning, Coleman called Flaherty out and showed him a baseball Perry had been throwing.

"I showed him where it was slippery," Coleman said. "Right on the writing. But he felt all around the spot and then just barely touched the slippery spot before putting the ball in his pocket.

"I could have thrown a spitter off the stuff he had on the ball," Coleman said. "I'd never thrown one in a game before, but I know how to do it. George Susce taught me how in Washington. I thought I threw some pretty good ones. I didn't throw one until after Bell hit his home run."

Bell's home run, his 12th, opened the eighth. Cleveland's other two runs came in when Chris Chambliss hit his sixth after a one-out walk to Oscar Gamble in the first.

Perry raised his record to 15-17 while Coleman dropped his sixth straight start and is now 18-14.

Ilie Nastase--no repeat in '73

Bulletin

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit Tigers Manager Billy Martin was suspended today for openly directing his pitchers to throw illegal pitches in Thursday night's game against alleged spitball artist Gaylord Perry of the Cleveland Indians.

A spokesman for the Tigers said Martin received a telegram from American League President Joe Cronin ordering the three-day suspension.

"Your blatant action and endorsement of such tactics cannot be tolerated," the telegram said. "You will not be allowed in uniform or in any game until Sept. 3."

Martin admitted Thursday night he told two of his pitchers to hurl illegal greaseball pitches in the 3-0 loss to the Indians.

Third base coach Joe Schultz ws named acting manager for the next three days.

Nastase loses at Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —Ilie Nastase of Romania lost his U.S. Open singles tennis champiinship today when Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia held service in the 10th game of the fifth set to complete a second round upset victory.

Nastase trailed 3-5 in the fifth set when a lack of daylight caused the match to be suspended Thursday night. He held service with the loss of two points in the ninth game when play was resumed but was unable to make the vital break which would have tied the match.

Pattison took the first two points to 30-love before Nastase came back to lead 40-30 only to dump a backhand into the net to make it deuce.

The Rhodesian reached match point when Nastase committed a volleying error but the Romanian brought it back to deuce before he gave Pattison his second match point by hitting a cross-court pass wide when he had all the time to play the stroke.

Pattison then made sure of his victory by hitting a forehand to Nastase's feet and causing him to commit an error.

The final scores were 6-7, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

There was no doubt that the third player on the court each of the first two days had been the weatherman. He continued basting the players with heat and stifling humidity.

But in early play Thursday, many top ranked players continued to advance with the minimum of hardship.

Now it was up to Stan Smith, the co-seeded No. 1 with Nastase, to cope with 16-year old Billy Martin of Palos Verdes, Calif. Martin, quaking in his boots, had opened the 1972 tournament and bravely took a set from the world's top player.

But if the weather bothered Smith today, it didn't bother the two old Aussies Thursday.

Rod Laver and Ken Rosewall rushed through their second round matches without dropping a set, and went quickly back to air conditioned comfort.

The top-ranked ladies didn't lose much time either. Defending champion Billie Jean King and second seeded Margaret Court quickly disposed of their opening round foes, Billie taking a 6-2, 6-3 win over Peggy Michel of Pacific Palisades, Calif., and Margaret making short work of Pat Pretorius of South Africa, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2.

Chris Evert, seeded third, and Evonne Googalong, seeded fourth, got the message. Chris overcame Rayni Fox of North Miami Beach, Fla., 6-3, 6-3, while many in the crowd of 10,783 marveled at the amazing look-alike pattern of play Miss Fox put up against the 18-yearold who had been the Cinderella of 1971.

Pearson wins pole for Southern 500

DARLINGTON, S.C (UPI) — Despite a blazing sun and a slippery track, David Pearson has the pole position to boost his hopes of winning the Southern 500 for the first time.

Pearson weathered a track temperature of more than 130 degrees Thursday to steer his Mercury around Darlington International Raceway at 150.366 miles per hour.

His time was nearly a full mile per hour faster than that of defending champion Bobby Allison and the 10 other drivers who claimed places in the 40-car field.

Another 12 slots were up for grabs today, with the final 16 cars for Monday's 24th annual Labor Day classic to be chosen Saturday.

Gonzalez scores KO

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rodolfo Gonzalez, the World Boxing Council lightweight champion, clubbed Boston's Donny Sennett into submission Thursday night at 2:39 in the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Olympic Auditorium.

Gonzalez, 140, a Mexican national who lives in Long Beach, Calif., knocked down Sennett, 139 ½, in the first round with a left hook to the chin. Sennett appeared stunned but not hurt badly and bounced up and gamely came back into the fray.

Early in the third, Gonzalez, 27, caught Sennett with a hard right to the head, sending him through the ropes. Sennett got up again and Gonzalez swarmed all over him, scoring with rights and lefts to head and body.

Referee Dick Young declared a knockout at 2:39 to give Gonzalez his 56th win against five losses. It was the champ's 47th kayo victory. Sennett, 23, has a record of 31-3 with 21 knockouts.

It was announced immediately from the ring that Gonzalez will defend his WBC crown in a 15-round bout against the European lightweight champion, Antonio Puddu of Italy, either at the Olympic or at the Sports Arena Sept. 28 under promotion of Aileen Eaton.

In a preliminary scheduled 10-rounder, unbeaten Rudy Robles, 164, Carson, Calif., knocked out Indian George Davis, 164, Oakland, Calif., at 1:03 of the ninth round.

Controversy doesn't faze Gaylord

By United Press International

The spitball controversy grows but Gaylord Perry remains unchanged by it all.

Ever since Perry admitted in a national magazine what others have been suspecting for a long time—that he did, in fact, throw a spitball—other pitchers have been trying to bring the controversy to a head, especially since Perry claims he no longer throws an illegal pitch.

Last Sunday Jim Merritt beat Perry and Indians and after the game Merritt admitted that he had thrown several spitballs during the contest. Merritt's remarks caused him to be fined by American League President Joe Cronin.

A few days after that Boston's Bill Lee admitted that he, too, had thrown the spitter this year, but as yet no action has been taken on the Red Sox left-hander.

Now a manager has gotten into the act. Billy Martin, manager of the Detroit Tigers, admitted Thursday night that he ordered pitchers Joe Coleman and Fred Scherman to throw spitters against Perry and the Indians to give Cleveland a taste of its own medicine.

"We threw spitters, obvious spitters, on purpose," Martin said. "I ordered Coleman and Scherman to do it in the eighth and ninth innings. This thing has got to come to a head. Somebody has got to take a stand."

"Coleman concealed vaseline on his wrists but rubbed it off whenever he feared he was going to be inspected by home plate umpire John Flaherty. We were just trying to show Perry up."

Martin's actions likely will stir up some repraisal by Cronin but it did nothing to deter Perry. The Indians' righthander, a Tiger nemesis all season, allowed only six hits in pitching his club to a 3-0 victory over Detroit.

"I've never thrown one in a game before," Coleman said, "but I know how to throw it. I thought I threw some pretty good ones. It wasn't to give me an advantage, it was done purposely to show them what it was like to hit against one.

"He (Perry) must have thrown 50 or 60 of them tonight. We've got to do something about this. Somebody has got to do something."

Perry was in total command of his pitches—whatever they were—against the Tigers as he beat them for the fourth straight time and raised his record to 15-17. The Tigers got only two runners as far as third base.

Chris Chambliss and Buddy Bell supported Perry with home runs as the Indians handed Coleman his sixth straight loss. Chambliss homered following a walk to Oscar Gamble in the first inning and Bell hit a solo blast in the eighth.

In the only other scheduled AL games, Milwaukee beat Boston 4-1 and Minnesota topped Texas 5-2 in 11 innings.

St. Louis beat New York 1-0 in 10 innings, Philadelphia defeated Montreal 8-7 and Los Angeles nipped Houston 6-5 in the only National League action.

The Brewers took advantage of three errors by third baseman Carl Yastrzemski to defeat the Red Sox. Yastrzemski, playing only his seventh game at third this year, booted grounders in the fourth and sixth innings that led to all four Milwaukee runs. Jim Slaton pitched a six-hitter for the Brewers. Bob Coluccio homered for Milwaukee while Yastrzemski connected for Boston.

Jim Holt knocked in the go-ahead run with an infield single to spark a four-run 11th inning rally that gave the Twins a victory over Texas. The victory spoiled a 15-strikeout performance by the Rangers' Jim Bibby, who went the distance and took the loss. Bert Blyleven pitched 10 innings for Minnesota and received credit for his 16th victory.

Lee heads Davis field

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) —A field of 144 players, headed by defending champion Lee Trevino and Arnold Palmer, tee off today in the $200,000 Sammy Davis Jr. Greater Hartford Open at the Wethersfield Country Club.

Trevino, who won $25,000 in the GHO a year ago, will be aiming for the tourney's top prize of $40,000.

Despite sweltering 98 degree weather Thursday's pro-am event attracted record crowds who were treated to serious golf and antics of such celebrities as Bob Hope, Milton Berle and Sammy Davis Jr.

Davis has lent his name to the Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Harttord Open, the traditional Labor Day stop on the PGA tour, and the reason for the renewed interest in the tournament at the Wethersfield Country Club.

Thursday's pro-am activities were a warm up for the kick off Friday of the $200,000 match that will net the winner first place money of $40,000.

Defending champion Lee Trevino and Davis teamed up Thursday and drew laughs from the estimated 20,000 spectators that jammed the country club and fairways.

Hope, who took things easy in a golf cart, paired with Arnold Palmer over the spacious 6,481 yard par 71 course.

Sports news in brief

THE LOS ANGELES DODGERS have called up seven minor league players to join them in their efforts to hold off Cincnnati in the National League West.

Recalled were pitchers Greg Shanahan and Eddie Solomon from Albuquerque of the Pacific Coast League. The Dodgers purchased the contracts of pitchers Geoff Zahn of Albuquerque and Greg Heydeman of Waterbury of the Eastern League, outfielders Jim Fairey of Albuquerque and Orlando Alvarez of Waterbury and catcher Kevin Pasley of Waterbury.

MARK HARMON threw touchdown bombs of 70 and 66 yards Thursday in what was probably UCLA's last scrimmage before the opening game at Nebraska Sept. 8. Harmon completed four of five passes for a total of 156 yards against the Bruin junior varsity.

ROB SCRIBNER, rookie running back from UCLA and Charles Smith, wide receiver from Grambling, cleared waivers and were signed to reserve squad contracts Thursday by the Los Angeles Rams.

The Rams also signed a placekicker to the reserves Mike Walker who is from Lancaster, England and released kicker Bill McClard, a second year man from Arkansas.

BOBBY TOLAN, Cincinnati Reds outfielder recently reinstated from the disabled list, surprised the Cincinnati club by showing up at the Greater Cincinnati Airport to board the chartered plane for San Diego.

His appearance prevented further disciplinary action in the wake of a refusal to see a physician after being placed on the disabled list.

THE CALIFORNIA ANGELS have recalled pitcher Andy Hassler, outfielder Mickey Rivers and catcher Art Kusnyer from their Salt Lake City farm club, it was announced today.

It's uniquely different, because The Pines has created 11 tranquil acres where you can stroll amid the pine trees. Get back to nature! Play 9 holes on our putting green, have a picnic, or just be plain old lazy.

At The Pines, you are just a stones throw from Montclair Plaza, minutes away from hospitals and medical facilities.

All apartments are fully carpeted and centrally air-conditioned. Closets are large and easily accessible. Kitchens are fully modern. There's a separate garden patio for each apartment. Carports have convenient storage compartments.

Come to The Pines—and we'll introduce you to a whole new way of life!
